Agreeably to order,

An Act authorizing persons co-partnerships associations and corporations who whether as sub-contractor or otherwise have furnished material or supplied or performed labor in connection with any public work or improvement to intervene in or institute actions on certain bonds given to the Commonwealth or to municipal corporations in connection with the performance of public contracts fixing the time within which such actions must be brought and the amounts recoverable therein and providing for distribution of amounts recovered and prescribing procedure

The first section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. RIAL. Mr. President, I move to amend page 5, Section 2, by striking out lines 24 to 28, inclusive; also page 6, Section 2, by striking out lines 1 to 5, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed".

Mr. KRAUSE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, I object to the amendments. If they are to be put to a vote, I would like to speak just a word against those amendments. I think in a few words I can make the situation clear from my standpoint.

House Bill No. 1704 provides that where a surety bond is given to the Commonwealth or other municipal division it shall include a provision for payment of material furnished and labor supplied; and, where no separate or additional bond conditioned for the payment of material furnished and labor supplied has been taken, that any sub-contractor shall have the right to intervene and be made a party to any action instituted on such bond by the Commonwealth.

Section 1 provides the procedure thereunder.

The objection made is to Section 2, which provides, whenever heretofore such bond has been given, that the remedies as provided by Section 1 shall extend to every such sub-contractor, material man, and labor.

By reason of the failure of Nelson Pedley Company, contractors on the new educational building, sub-contractors are threatened with a loss of approximately half a millon dollars. They have no relief, nor any opportunity to try their case in court, unless relief is given by this Legislature. To strike Section 2 from the bill will mean that these sub-contractors will be denied their day in Court

Section 2, as drafted, does not violate the Constitution, as it does not seek to impair the obligation of the contractor but merely provides a remedy That the Legislature may create a remedy not heretofore existing has received the sanction of the Courts.

This bill does not seek to create a new right on behalf of the sub-contractors against the bonding company; it merely gives them a right to their day in court.

And, consequently, I am opposed to the amendments that have just been offered by Senator Rial.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Dauphin.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Earnest, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, I would be glad to.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Earnest, if this bill is not retroactive, by its provisions.

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, yes, I believe so. And the amendment, I would like to say to the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, would take that feature out.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, may I then ask the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Earnest, whether in its present form it is retroactive

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, it is.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, is it not a fact that as stated before the committee that considered this bill that it was not retroactive?

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, I do not so understand. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Rial, and I, discussed it, and I did not have that impression at all.

Mr. RIAL. Mr. President, my objection to this bill as it appears has relation to the retroactive features. "Whenever heretofore a contractor in connection with any public work or improvement, and his, their or its surety has assumed in a bond given to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the obligation to pay all lawful claims of sub-contractors, material-men and laborers, for labor performed and materials furnished in connection with such public work or improvement, then, in such event, the remedies as provided by section one of this act shall extend to every such sub-contractor, material-man and laborer."

My objection to the bill as printed has relation to what I regard as the retroactive features of this bill. I hardly think we could class a bond which would modify the obligations of a contract after it had theretofore been entered into between the contractor and surety in the performance of any public duties. That is my objection to this bill, and the purpose in offering this amendment is to cut that feature of it out.

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, may I say just one more word? I have been informed by Mr. Reed, the sponsor of the bill, that the sub-contractors, or a number of them, went to the Department of Property and Supplies, and asked whether or not they were fully protected, and that they were informed that they were, and under that assumption they performed the work and furnished the materials in the construction of this building. Then this disastrous fire occurred, and now they find that under the law as it is they are out; and what they want is a chance to go into court to find out whether the bond really covers them or not. And Mr Reed informs me that without this resolution they are prevented from going into court and having that matter determined

Mr. WILLIAMSON Mr. President, I am for this bill and if my colleague from Westmoreland, Mr. Rial, a very able lawyer, is correct, then, if we pass it there can be no recovery on a bond in existence prior to this session of the Legislature.

I am for this bill for the protection of contractors in the future; and if Senator Rial's legal position is correct, then that will waive his objection to the retroactive features of this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The third and fourth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 3 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act authorizing persons co-partnerships associations and corporations who whether as sub-contractor or otherwise have furnished material or supplied or performed labor in connection with any public work or improvement to intervene in or institute actions on certain bonds given to the Commonwealth or to municipal corporations in connection with the performance of public contracts fixing the time within which such actions must be brought and the amounts recoverable therein and providing for distribution of amounts recovered and prescribing procedure

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend Page 43, Line 8, by inserting the following clause: "For the purpose of reimbursing school districts for the salaries of school teachers in the amounts lawfully payable according to their revised ratios in the sum of Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.)"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate: I have proposed to amend this bill by inserting on Page 43, after Line 8, the following clause:

"For the purpose of reimbursing school districts for the salaries of school teachers in the amounts lawfully payable according to their revised ratios in the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00)."

Your Committee on Appropriations has not included this clause, and I believe this body and the people of Pennsylvania should be fully informed of all the circumstances relating to my proposal and to its rejection.

Under the Act of 1921, P. L. 328, it is required that the State shall pay certain percentages of school teachers' salaries, and that these percentages be based upon the assessed valuation back of each teacher. In other words, the assessed valuation of the district is divided by the number of teachers, and in this manner the State's obligation is determined. This is a legal obligation upon the State, set up by the General Assembly.

In Luzerne County appeals were taken from the triennial assessments of 1925 and 1928, and after years of litigation the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania handed down a decision that resulted in reducing the assessed valuation of the county approximately seventy millions of dollars. This decision was retroactive in its effect to 1925. In the meantime, school districts were making their tax levies and receiving support from the State based upon the old erroneous valuation. The school districts for whom I plead today had their total valuations reduced some fifty millions of dollars, and they are now compelled to pay back over a period of twelve years the excess taxes which they collected and spent during the years since 1925.

If the valuation had been properly fixed in 1925, a reduced valuation back of each teacher would have been known, and these districts would have legally received the the State approximately one million dollars more than they have received since that time. I feel that I should come to this body and make a strenuous fight for the payment of this sum to correct this unfortunate situation.

What is the result of the situation that I have described? These school districts have indebtedness totalling eight million dollars. In many places teachers are behind in their salaries, the school year has been curtailed in some instances, and the little fellow with his little home and industry alike are groaning under terrific high tax levies.

But we did not come and make demand for this million and a half of dollars from the State to correct the errors of past years. What did we do? You will find it of interest.

As soon as the correct valuation under the 1931 triennial assessment was known, solicitors from the school districts, with other representatives, appeared before the Department of Education, and from that time on, conferences without number have been held—all with one purpose—and that to have the legal amount payable to the school districts—for the next biennium, mark you——not for the past——but for the future——included in the appropriation to be made at this session. Hence, my efforts to have the bill amended, not to appropriate the money to the various districts, but to make the money available for the Department of Education to allocate on the merits of each case. We well know that when the Department of Education meets after June 1st to consider this matter, their only reply will be that, inasmuch as the Legislature has failed to make the money available, they are helpless and our cause is hopeless.

Governor Pinchot, in his address to the House last Wednesday, intimated that if certain revenue-producing bills were not enacted, new sources of revenue would have to be found. I most respectfully suggest to His Excellency, the Governor, that no new source of tax revenue will ever be found—only one source of tax revenue has ever been known, or ever will be known. True, we provide that these revenues shall come in through different channels, and give them fancy names—mercantile tax—inheritance tax—capital stock tax—liquid fuel tax, and what not—but Adam Smith laid down a principle one hundred and fifty years ago that has never been upset when he said, "that all taxes must come from one of three sources, rent, profit, or labor," and Senator Borah has reiterated the same principle when he said, "The marvel of all history, the patience with which men and women submit to burdens unnecessarily laid upon them by their governments. If taxes would remain where they are laid, conditions would be less cruel, but they are passed on to those who are least able to pay and are represented in everything the poor must buy: For clothes, food and shelter. Taxes with vicious persistence always seek the low man; on his back is the burden of the world."

And I think, gentlemen of the Senate, that it is unnecessary to remind you that no matter what label or fancy name may be placed upon a tax, or no matter whether this tax is paid by a check from some corporation or from some merchant, after all, it is finally paid by the little fellow—the laborer, the farmer, and the working man.

I need not remind you, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, that these are critical days in our economic life. Neither is it necessary as a business man to remind you that in planning budgets of our concerns we first consider our legal and honest obligations, and that expenditure which may be classed as luxuries should not be considered until provision is made for the necessities. I need not remind you that in our personal lives, in our business affairs, and in our governmental affairs, proposed expenditures can be roughly divided into two divisions: First, those that are necessary and, second, those that may be desirable but not absolutely necessary.

And so I suggest that we consider that in this year, 1931, we plan not to find excuse for further taxation on the people of Pennsylvania, but that we carefully analyze this Appropriation Bill and, as business men, try intelligently to decide each of the appropriations on its individual merits.

I feel and I believe you feel that it is much better for you and for me to provide this Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00), by cutting out some useless and extravagant expenditure, than it is to use it as an excuse to further tax the people of Pennsylvania, citizens, who are, as never before, struggling under financial burdens with decreased earnings, no matter what their position in life.

I have before me a "Statement of General Fund of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania showing the revenues to this date and the unappropriated surplus May 31, 1931, and the estimated revenue for the two years beginning June 1 1931, which I shall read in detail.

Estimated Unallocated Surplus beyond budget recommendations, ...		$7,136,253.17

This shows, gentlemen, $7,136,253.17 estimated unallocated surplus beyond the Budget recommendation.

I can show you gentlemen, a great many appropriations that have been recommended by the Governor for this biennium that are very worthy but which are not absolutely essential.

In the Auditor General's Department they are asking for approximately $225,000 more than for the biennium, 1929-1931.

In the Treasury Department, about $200,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium

In the Department of Health, about $100,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Justice about $200,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Labor and Industry, about $160,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Military Affairs, about $100,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Public Instruction, about $4,250,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Revenue, about $100,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium.

In the Department of Welfare, about $3,600,000 more than for the 1929-1931 biennium, or a total of approximately $8,875,000 for departmental expenditures. This together with the $7,136,253.17 which I just mentioned, makes a grand total of $16,011,253.17 that will be available to take care of this appropriation of $250,000, which the school districts of Luzerne County are so justly entitled to.

In addition to this $16,011,253.17, there are a great many appropriations for the building of hospitals, dams, State Prisons, and a great number of other appropriations in the Budget all of which are worthy, no doubt, but why should these be built out of funds that legally belong to our impoverished school districts?

Gentlemen of the Senate, I am not asking for charity. I am seeking justice, and I feel that the fair-minded men in this Senate will stand by me to give to the people of Luzerne County their justly entitled percentage of appropriations that other communities are entitled to, but of which we are not getting our just share.

This is no fault of my people, neither is it the fault of the Legislature, nor the fault of the Department of Education, nor the fault of the Governor. It is an unusual situation, brought about by years of litigation, which has resulted in a great loss in assessed values. There are such unusual circumstances surrounding this case that I feel that the decision should be left with this body, and I am asking you, in all fairness, to provide this appropriation in the Budget. Let me again reiterate that this does not allocate the money to the school districts: It simply provides the funds in the Budget, so that after careful consideration of each and every case by the Department of Education, the funds will be available, if they decide, as I know they will, that these claims are just and proper. If there must be cuts, let us cut on appropriations for improvements, and not by sidestepping our legal and moral responsibilities. I ask you again, gentlemen, in all fairness, to cast your vote with me in amending this bill and with that in mind, I offer the amendment.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, in reply to the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni, I would like to make the statement that the Department of Education did not include the amount he refers to in the budget. In order that the Senate may be informed, in 1925-27 the budget provided, for teachers' salaries, $43,562,712.75; for 1927-29 it provided $47,600,000.00; for 1929-31, $52,100,000.00; and for 1931-33, $57,250,000.

I hope the amendment will not prevail, because at this late day it will interfere with the general appropriation bill.

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the difficult job that the Senator from Centre, Mr. Scott, has, and the able manner in which he has tried to administer it; but this question is not a question, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, of his wishes or my wishes, it is a question of justice. The School Directors of Luzerne County are entitled to this money under the law. I just showed you sixteen millions of dollars available for this; and, gentlemen, if the money is not available, then we should, in all fairness, reduce some of the expenditures not contemplated by the law, expenditures that are worthy—no question about it, but this is a question of law, of decency, of honesty; and I am asking you gentlemen, in all fairness, to stand by me in this our hour of need for the school teachers of Luzerne County.

I have no personal axe to grind. This is not a political situation. This money is not being allocated to the school district, it is simply provided in the budget to have the Department of Education allocate this money if, after investigation, they consider this cause a worthy one.

Gentlemen, I ask your support on this measure. I ask unanimous consent to introduce these amendments

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I regret exceedingly that I must object.

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, did you not already rule that there was no objection?

Will not the Senator from Centre, Mr. Scott, withdraw his objection?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, if Luzerne were the only district in Pennsylvania affected by the industrial conditions throughout Pennsylvania, there might be some reason for these amendments. Pretty nearly every school district in Pennsylvania is in the same shape as Luzerne County, and it is unfortunate indeed that this matter must come up just at this particular time.

I sincerely hope that the Senate of Pennsylvania will not go along with amendments of this kind, and that the amendments will not prevail.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I understand that the Chair has already ruled that there is no objection.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I withdraw the objection.

The PRESIDENT. The objection has been withdrawn.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, may I have the liberty of correcting the Senator from Centre, Mr. Scott, as to the condition that exists in the school districts of Luzerne County? I realize only too well the financial difficulties that at present obtain in our school districts. This is not due to the general depression, gentlemen of the Senate, this is due to an unusual condition brought about by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania when it decided that the coal valuations of Luzerne County were not what they were assessed at in 1925.

This money is contemplated by law. This money should be allocated to the teachers of Luzerne County. It is not a condition similar to that in any other portion of the State of Pennsylvania, or, to the best of my knowledge and belief, in any other portion of the United States of America; and I again beseech you gentlemen to help us in this our hour of need.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni, whether it is not true that Schuylkill County and also Dauphin County are affected just the same with respect to the taxes.

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, no; the Senator from Centre, Mr. Scott, is misinformed.

Gentlemen of the Senate, this pertains only to Luzerne County; it does not pertain to Schuylkill County; it does not pertain to Dauphin County; it does not pertain to Lackawanna County or any other county; it is only in the case of Luzerne County, where assessments have been made in 1925 and were taken exception to by the large coal companies and after years of litigation those decisions were made only this year, gentlemen, the decisions were made this year reducing the valuation of Luzerne coal property $27,000,000.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I desire further to interrogate the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I believe that I suggested to the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Sordoni, that he take this matter up with the Department of Revenue; and I have no doubt he has taken it up with His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth. Is that not a fact?

Mr. SORDONI. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Centre, Mr. Scott, I have taken it up with all these gentlemen. The Governor of the State of Pennsylvania is most sympathetic. Dr. Clyde King is most sympathetic. The Department of Education told me, no later than yesterday, that they hoped this appropriation, gentlemen, would be available. And I want to say this—that this is a legal and lawful amount of money due our school districts. It is not a question of politics, gentlemen. I am not a politician. But I know what I am asking for, and I ask you gentlemen, again, to vote with me, because this money is not being allocated, let me reiterate, to these districts, but is being made available to the Department of Education to use according to their best judgment when the time comes to use their best judgment.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Luzerne, I cannot see how they can hold the Commonwealth responsible for this amount of money in the shrinkage in the property valuation in Luzerne County; and I again ask the Senate to vote down these amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Sordoni and Mr. Harvey, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—19

Aron,	Ealy,	Hunsicker,	Snyder,
Brandt,	Freeman,	Parkinson,	Sordoni,
Chapman,	Gelder,	Pethick,	Trainer,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1279 (House Bill No. 330), entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (P. L. 34), entitled "An act concerning alcoholic liquors; prohibiting the manufacture, advertising, furnishing, traffic in and possession of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and articles and substances designed or intended for use in the manufacture thereof; defining intoxicating liquor; providing for penalties, forfeitures, and the abatement of nuisances; and repealing existing alcoholic liquor laws and alcoholic liquor license laws," by setting forth the contents required in an affidavit for a search warrant to search a private dwelling; and regulating the searching of private dwellings.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President, with very few hours of this session to run it is not appropriate to take up the time of this august body with remarks, but I cannot help calling attention to the fact that this is an amendment to the Act of March 27, 1923, which practically takes away all force from that act,—by these amendments, which I will now read,—and nullifies it. The amendment I refer to reads: "and the affidavit for the search warrant shall aver personal knowledge of such sale of intoxication liquor, setting forth the details concerning same."

I am well aware, Mr. President, that there may be sections of this Commonwealth where there is no serious intention by the authorities to enforce the liquor laws of this Commonwealth, but I come, Mr. President, from a section of the State which does make an honest effort, and the authorities there do enforce the laws of the Commonwealth and of the Federal Government; and we do not want to be deprived of the privilege of restoring to the search warrant.

We all know very well that if an individual is suspected of violating the liquor laws of this Commonwealth, not once in a thousand times could the officer or person applying for the search warrant fulfill the obligations of this amendment to the Act of March 27th by making affidavit that he had personal knowledge of the violation of the law; and that is what this amendment wants.

If, as I am aware, the filing of the search warrant is abused in certain parts of this State, why should the rest of the State be deprived of the benefits of the search warrant? And I cannot let this opportunity pass without calling the attention of the Senators to just what they are voting on, and to say that I am much opposed to this amendment.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, this is a very harmless bill; and we have had some very serious experiences in Philadelphia, which have brought us to the position we now hold,—that of wanting to have this bill passed. In Philadelphia no man is safe in his home. The way the Department of Public Safety carries on its work, the way we have private homes invaded without cause, makes it imperative that we have this bill enacted into law. Any officer, without the slightest proof, can have someone go before a magistrate and make an affidavit, and upon these flimsy affidavits the officers crash into people's homes, break up their furniture, herd them into magistrates' offices, where they are put to humiliation. They have to get bail and pay for legal services. And in not one of these cases has there been a conviction.

Now, this bill is going to stop that. This bill will prevent a lot of officers going into a magistrate's office and getting a warrant and then raiding private residences. I therefore ask the Senate to vote for this bill.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, just one word on this bill. I am not going to take much time. This bill is a perfectly harmless bill. If, as my friend from Blair, Mr. Williamson, says, the people in his county, and the officers, obey the law, it can bring no harm to that county,—or to any other county where those who enforce the law obey the law. If the officers of the Commonwealth, police officers in particular, would obey the law that is on the statute books now, there would be no occasion for this particular bill presented at this time.

The purpose of this bill is to find out and hold those who have authority in such a manner that they obey the laws of this Commonwealth; and it comes with poor grace from any officer of the law to ask any citizen of this Commonwealth to obey the law unless that officer himself sets an example to the public and shows the public that he is obeying the laws of this Commonwealth. And all this piece of legislation asks for is that those who have the enforcing of the law in this Commonwealth enforce it according to the law, and do not use the law in a manner that self-respecting citizens object to. There is no harm in this legislation at all for an honest, upright man who has authority and who uses that authority in accordance with the present law.

Mr. WILLIAMSON. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, certainly misunderstood me. I said our officers generally made an honest effort to enforce the law. Of course, we have law-breakers in both counties in my district, but the general sentiment in that district is for law enforcement; and I cannot sit here idly and let this bill go by without a protest.

We want the privilege,—as the law now stands, we want to be able to resort to the search warrant; but we will never have any search warrant in any of our counties, where our officers generally make an honest attempt to enforce the law, if the particular officer or individual applying for the search warrant must testify, before the search warrant can be issued to the officer, that he has a personal knowledge. To state the proposition is to answer it.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, perhaps it is rather unfortunate that this late in the session there should be an effort to make a wet and dry issue out of this bill. I want to say to the members of this Senate that in my judgment this is not a wet and dry issue, it is simply a matter of procedure; and so far as I can see, it is a very fair amendment to the procedure section in the Snyder-Armstrong Law, and I do not feel that the vote of any of the Senators on this floor on this measure should be interpreted as a vote for the wet cause or for the dry cause.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I expect to vote "no" on this bill, and I simply want to state my reason. I introduced Senate Bill No. 1, that would have solved these questions by referendum. I cannot get the committee to consider Senate Bill No. 1, so I am going to hamper it, just as described, by my vote, so we will get Senate Bill No. 1 next time.

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President. Two complete Election Codes were introduced in the Senate and referred to this Committee. One of these was merely a codification of the present laws, prepared by the Legislative Reference Bureau at the instance of the Election Law Commission, which was created under an Act of Assembly approved the eighth of May, 1929. The duties of the Commission as defined by the creating Act, were:

> "* * * to study the election laws of this Commonwealth, and of other States, including laws relating to the conduct of general, municipal, and primary elections, the assessment, registration and enrollment of voters, election returns, the use of voting machines, and, generally, all laws properly classified under the subject of elections; to prepare and submit to the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine a complete codification and revision of the election laws;"——

The report of the Commission which was filed recently stated that:

> "In order that the Commission might procure all shades of individual and public opinion relating to the election laws and proposed changes therein, public hearings were held at such places as it was felt would fairly cover the Commonwealth, namely, Harrisburg, Scranton, Williamsport, Erie, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia. Advance public notices of such hearings were carried in the newspapers, in addition to which every civic or other interested organization, all county commissioners, election officers, judges, district attorneys and other public officials of each section were individually invited to appear and make recommendations. Every person who did appear was given full opportunity to express his or her ideas, and several hundred such witnesses were heard."

I am advised by Senator Schantz that transcripts of the testimony taken before the Election Law Commission have been made and are available for use in further study of the Election Laws by any group desiring the same.

A number of suggestions for new laws made by the Commission were drafted into bills and submitted in this Session. Unfortunately, they came too late for proper study of all. However, bills containing some of the suggestions have been passed by the Senate.

While the Elections Commission was holding its meetings and preparing its report, an Election Law Conference composed of a number of separate organizations was also engaged in the study of election reform. This body is said to have used the code of the present laws, referred to previously, as a basis for its work and to have prepared the other codification which has been introduced here by Senator Harris as Senate Bill 151.

It seems to me unfortunate that the two bodies created to suggest changes in the election laws did not co-operate fully and co-ordinate their efforts in this important work. And I may remark also that in the introduction of legislation, the Elections Committee was not taken into the confidence of either group.

The Election Code prepared by the Conference and introduced as Senate Bill No. 151 contained some desirable features, but it also contained so much that was objectionable, that it was generally rejected by the people. Not a single member of the Senate—with the exception of the sponsor of the bill—and not a single member of the House asked me to have this bill reported out of Committee. No one who talked to me and who had read the bill favored it as a whole, and no one explained how it could be amended satisfactorily. Even after numerous amendments were made, the House rejected a similar bill decisively.

However a number of the provisions of this election code drafted into separate bills and passed by the Senate, for instance, a bill extending the hours for closing the polls to facilitate the use of voting machines, a bill intended to prevent "chain voting," a bill to require candidates accounts to remain on file for two years, a bill fixing the number of voting machines to a district according to the number of registered voters, a bill to eliminate names of Presidential electors from the ballot, a bill to permit voting on age at primaries, etc. Indeed, more than fifteen bills relating to elections have passed the Senate at this session. Not all of these bills, however, have passed the House.

One of the authors of the Code explained that there were two distinct main features comprised therein: one, relating to the concentration of the power of elections in the hands of County Boards. The other main feature relating to permanent personal registration throughout the State. In order that this latter feature of the Code might be given proper consideration, a bill was introduced by Senator James S. Boyd, containing the provisions of the Code relating thereto. Copies of this bill were sent to each Board of County Commissioners in the sixty-seven counties throughout the State, as they are the persons who would have charge of putting the bill into effect, if passed, and most likely to understand the character of changes proposed. These Boards were earnestly requested to give intensive study of the bill, considering particularly the question of the desirability of changes in the present law, the feasibility of the plan proposed, and the probably cost of operation.

It was hoped that answers would be received from a considerable number of the counties; however, replies were received from only ten counties.

The replies ranged from a brief statement in one letter, that such a bill would be favored, to a reply in one that the bill was a vicious one.

The majority of the replies, however, were strongly against the enactment of the measure and none of the replies indicated any special desire for the legislation.

It would seem that there is not at this time any general sentiment throughout the State for drastic changes in our election laws.

However, the subject of election reform is not to be treated lightly. Corrupt elections corrupt our whole government. But laws hastily passed sometimes prove bad. As to some reform measures, it has been said that, "Bosses wonder why they feared the law, and reformers why they desired it."

Some of the laws passed during the last administration have proved helpful. They have resulted, it is said, in the conviction of numerous election officials who have violated the law. A study of the two Codes and the other bills introduced at this Session and the testimony taken by the Election Law Committee ought to result in some constructive measures at the next Session of the Legislature, but to bring about the best results requires co-operation of all.

PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA COMMISSION FOR THE BI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF THE BIRTH OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate Preliminary Report of the Pennsylvania Commission for the Bi-Centennial Celebration of the Birth of George Washington which was read as follows:

To the General Assembly,

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Session of 1931.

A joint resolution of the Congress of the United States for the purpose of commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, was approved December 2, 1924.

In pursuance of such action on the part of Congress, and conforming with the desires, expressed therein that the States and their political subdivisions co-operate with the Federal Government, a joint resolution of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania was approved May 6, 1925, and the following Commission was appointed:

Mrs. J. Willis Martin, Hon. Allen W. Hagenbach, Hon. Charles C. Henderson, Hon. S. Everett Sproul, Hon. Samuel W. Salus, Hon. Thaddeus S. Krause, Hon. George T. Weingartner, Hon. Charles W. Sones, Hon. Augustus F. Daix, Hon. Francis H. S. Ede, Hon. Edwin E. Emhardt, Hon. William C. Alexander, Hon. W. Albertson Haines, and Hon. Aaron B. Hess.

The first meeting for the formation and organization of the Pennsylvania Commission for the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington convened in the office of His Excellency, Hon. John S. Fisher, at Harrisburg, Pa., on April 15, 1930, at 2:00 P. M.

The propriety and necessity of their being organized having been suggested by His Excellency John S. Fisher, and that a Chairman and Secretary be nominated; the Hon. Thaddeus Stevens Krause, Philadelphia, was nominated for Chairman and Hon. S. Everett Sproul, Chester, was nominated for Secretary.

Upon motion made and carried, Senator Krause was unanimously elected Chairman of the Commission, and Mr. Sproul Secretary.

Hon. Allen W. Hagenbach, Allentown, Pa., was nominated and unanimously elected Vice-Chairman.

The first meeting of the Pennsylvania Commission, after its organization was held on February 19, 1931, at Philadelphia, Pa.

The Chairman presented to the meeting the program of events as suggested and outlined by the Federal Commission. This program was discussed, and after consideration, was adopted, with some modification; the celebration days of April 19th (Patriot's Day) and February 20th, were eliminated. The program is as follows:

Feb. 21—Commemoration services in all the churches in memory of George Washington.

Feb. 22—General display of flags and decorations. Special newspaper features, school exercises, assemblies with patriotic addresses made by speakers selected by the County Committee who are most likely to give the best eulogy of George Washington; pageants, plays and music. Public meetings with appropriate programs so timed as to receive broadcasting of address by the President of the United States. At the close of the President's address, singing of "America" led by the Marine Band, broadcasting from Washington.

Apr. 19—Patriot's Day. Anniversary of the Battle of Lexington. Special exercises everywhere under the auspices of patriotic organizations.

May 30—Memorial Day. In addition to the regular memorial exercises, special attention should be given to George Washington and his fellow soldiers of the Revolution. This can be done by an appropriate address and the placing of flowers before an arch, portrait, or other material memento of George Washington.

June 14—Flag Day. The flag should be flown everywhere and exercises should be held and addresses made in its honor. Newspapers and other means available should be used in requesting citizens to display the flag.

July 4—A public reading of the Declaration of Independence and explanatory addresses thereon. Parade with floats depicting especially the life of George Washington. The Governor of the State will be asked to broadcast a speech on this day.

Sept. 5—Labor Day. In exercises customary for this day tribute should be paid to George Washington and referred to as the liberator and laborer for the good of mankind.

Sept. 17—Constitution Day. Special meetings and programs under the direction of the Bar Association in every County of the State of Pennsylvania, devoted to serious consideration of the United States Constitution and the part which George Washington played in its preparation, adoption and ratification, especially as regards the type of government he and his collaborators intended it should be.

Nov. 11—Armistice Day. The leadership of the celebration is usually held under the auspices of the American Legion and other veteran groups of the World War. Other military organizations could be asked to participate in parades with floats depicting the military phase of George Washington's life; pageants, cantatas and plays could be held in schools and other meetings of fraternal organizations.

Nov. 24—Thanksgiving Day. In the customary Thanksgiving services as held in the various churches, references should be made to George Washington's character and the efforts he put forth towards the establishing of liberty, security and happiness. Concluding remarks giving thanks for the life and services of George Washington.

A suggestion was also made and accepted that particular attention be given to Valley Forge, Washington's Crossing and the Battle of Brandywine. The celebration at the site of the Battle of Brandywine to be held on the anniversary date of said battle.

A subsequent meeting of the Commission was held in Philadelphia on April 17, 1931. The elimination of Patriot's Day was reconsidered and thereupon made a part of the program.

The beautification of entrances to Cities and Towns by the planting of trees and shrubbery was suggested and considered. Upon motion made, it was carried that this idea be adopted and included in the State program, and Arbor Day was designated as the time for this work.

The Commission has communicated with the civic organizations of the sixty-seven Counties, and a goodly number have already formed committees and have, for many months, been functioning and arranging for a year of State-wide celebration along the lines of the program adopted by your commission.

It is the belief that by September 1, 1931, all of the sixty-seven Counties will have been thoroughly organized.

In conforming with the resolution of the General Assembly this preliminary report is respectfully submitted.

THAD. S. KRAUSE, Chairman.
S. E. SPROUL, Secretary.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the action of the House today in recommitting Senate Bill No. 976, known as the McClure Utility Code, means that this legislation which amended the Public Service Commission Law to strengthen its provisions and protect the people of Pennsylvania has been killed and that there is no chance in the closing hours of the Session of its being enacted upon by the House. It would have been of great benefit in deciding the important question of rates, security issues, managerial contracts, mergers and appeals to the Superior Court. The responsibility must therefore rest with the Governor whose forces dominate and control the House. It is clear proof that Governor Pinchot's interest in utility legislation has its foundation only in politics. He apparently has a fixed design to kill all constructive legislation on the subject of utilities at the present Session. He not only has accomplished his purpose at the present time, but, incidentally, by clogging the wheels of the General Assembly, has prevented many other valuable pieces of legislation from being considered and passed and has discouraged constructive legislation which probably would have come before us, were it not for the fact, that those interested realized the utter impossibility of the situation which he created and steadily maintained during the entire course of the present Session. The Governor's criticisms, unjust and unwarranted, have destroyed that harmony which should exist between the Legislature and the Executive for the benefit of the people.

Personally, I am distressed that the legislation we have so painstakenly formulated apparently cannot pass at this Session, as I feel that we are losing an opportunity to fulfill a public duty, and I want it to be known that the Senate of Pennsylvania has from the beginning bent its back to be helpful to the people in furnishing them with such legislative relief as is of immediate need and can be enacted in this period of acute depression without damage to business.

Some day, and that day is not far in the future, when this Legislature has adjourned and the people of Pennsylvania shall sit down dispassionately to decipher the purpose of the Senate, they will clearly discern that it has not been unfriendly or inimical to their interests; then they will justly lay the blame where it belongs, at the door of the Governor.

I would be interested to know just what excuse Governor Pinchot can give for defeating a bill which contained regulatory features agreed upon both by the Senate and House Investigating Committees. It contains the provisions of the original Howell Bill, the Harvey Bill, and several other constructive measures, including some of those which arose in the House, such as the provisions of the so-called Fair Rate Bills relative to the right of the Commission to investigate contractual relations of utilities and managerial contracts, fees and charges,—indeed substantially all of the so-called Fair Rate Bill which was not unconstitutional, economically unsound, Socialistic or destructive of vested rights.

The Governor has performed one service to the public today, he has revealed himself as one not interested in the people, but in his own political future. His political ambitions can now be further advanced by the calling of an extra session.

upon which he must rely to keep his name in the newspapers upon the eve of the Presidential campaign next year.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York. Mr. Spangler, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. I was rather surprised to see in one of my local papers at home an article with a large headline, which said "Spangler filibusters against bill failure. York's representative is unsuccessful in trying to kill Public Service Commission measure. Proposal passes 128 to 72. In spite of an attempt by Representative Robert S. Spangler, to kill the House Bill by which the Governor is empowered to remove members of the Public Service Commission, the measure was passed at the last minute of the House session last night. Representative Spangler started a filibuster when the Howell bill was being considered, but was shut off when a roll call was ordered in the last few minutes of time agreed upon to consider the Howell proposal, thus permitting a vote to be taken. The bill passed 128 to 72. Spangler, led an attack on the provision of the bill giving the Governor the right to remove the Public Service Commission, and then read from various publications without heed being paid to him".

Now, that "without heed being paid to him" is a pretty big slap because whenever we do talk we always like to have some attention paid to our remarks. I must admit that at the time this bill was under consideration, and my remarks were being made, instead of speaking my remarks to the House, I had carefully prepared them, so that they would be an accurate expression of my views. I also realize that it is very difficult, particularly when the House is engaged, as it was the other night, to attract the attention of the members of the House to the message whether important or unimportant, but when they say in this article that no heed was being paid to my remarks, I think that they misstated the facts, because Chief Marshall Stahlnecker and his assistant, Mr. Armstrong, whom the gentleman from Berks has designated as our guardian, apparently were going through the House, both of them, running back and forth through the aisles and telling the members that the bill was in jeopardy, that unless something was done to cut me off in my debate, the matter of the bill was going to fail, and since that time, until this morning, I have not even seen Mr. Armstrong in the House, and they tell me that he has been using a great deal of arnica ever since for the excessive exercise he used on that particular night.

Now, I was also informed that these lieutenants, who had such a fright thrown into them, came to the conclusion that unless I were cut off from my remarks at that particular time, that the bill was absolutely doomed. They go on to say, "The Speaker put the question ignoring the York member who sat down. A standing vote of the members was taken at eleven thirty-eight and the Speaker announced that ninety-three members had voted for the previous question, and eighty-two voted against it. 'The Clerk will call the roll'; said the Speaker. As Mr. Spangler sought recognition, it was eleven thirty and the administration had won by a single minute, for once a roll call is started no further legislation can be called." So, apparently, I was pictured like a stage villain attempting to steal a child, and then about the time I had the child in my arms and was ready to run off with it, the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Mumford, with his unerring aim shot and the villain fell in his tracks.

I admit that the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Mumford, performed an excellent deed on that occasion, and I admit that Mr. Mumford is one of the leaders of the administration in this House, but Mr. Mumford cannot take too much pride to himself because Mr. Mumford's invitation was about the third or fourth. I was informed that the various delegates were over on the right-hand side of the House in a strenuous endeavor to get some member on that side to make a motion, and later on, when they failed, they went over to the nestor of the House, and he treated their entreaties and their request with disdain and refused, and last of all they came to our good friend from Warren, Mr. Mumford. Although Mr. Mumford has a very low and dulcet voice and can scarcely be heard—in fact, when the gentleman from Warren often speaks, he speaks in such a low tone of voice that sometimes we think he is talking to himself—but on this occasion he sounded the alarm in stentorian tones as if a fire were about to consume the members of the House, and the greatest measure that was ever before this House was about to go down to defeat, and the good work that had been done by the lieutenants in lining up the members of this House to arise to the clarion call, when it should be made, rose up en masse and saved the day for the Governor.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from York under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

RESOLUTION No. 54

Mr. DeFREHN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order Resolution No. 54, Printer's No. 1232.

In the House of Representatives, May 26, 1931.

Whereas There is an increasing tendency in this country to employ only young men in order to speed up industry and to deny employment to persons over the age of forty-five years many of whom are still fully capable of manual labor for many years to come and

Whereas Such a policy creates a labor condition which needs correction and ways and means should be devised whereby industry employing men over forty-five years of age will not meet unfair competition from industry which refuses such employment therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Greater Pennsylvania Council is hereby authorized to investigate and study ways and means to correct labor conditions caused by the refusal of industry to employ persons over the age of forty-five years and to inquire into the feasibility of aiding persons over the age of forty-five years in securing employment by imposing a graduated tax to be paid by employes on wages of employes under the age of forty-five years the proceeds of such tax to be distributed on a graduated scale as a refund to employers for wages paid to persons employed over the age of forty-five years

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I rise, Sir, this morning in the exercise of a parliamentary privilege to justify my conduct as a member of this House, and to give to the people of this Commonwealth a solemn note of warning and a protest against the arrogant and defiant indifference which has made it impossible to discuss any important legislation upon the floor of this Assembly.

I lay aside political associations, and I ask you to forget yours. I seek your indulgence for a few moments, in these last hours of this Session. I prefer to remain silent, but there are times when to be silent is a confession of weakness, and it may be acquiescence in the very system which today is an evil in our legislative assemblies, and a curse resting upon our so-called Representative Government. I rise, Sir, to record my protest against the continued abuse of discretion and of the malicious misuse of power by Legislative Committees in this Assembly.

This House is made up of two hundred and eight Members, of which I happen to be one. I represent a district, in the City of Philadelphia, with approximately fifteen thousand voters. They are a liberty loving people. They respect the law. They pay thousands of dollars, yes millions, in taxes every year. They are entitled to be represented, and by their representative to be heard, and when such representative in their behalf, and in behalf of one million more law abiding citizens of this Commonwealth introduces a bill to repeal some existing law, or to provide for a referendum to ascertain the sentiment of the State concerning it, such representative and such bill is entitled to be taken seriously, and the propriety of the legislation, and the wisdom of the referendum is a subject entitled to fair consideration in the committee to which it is referred and by every Member of this House.

I assure you Sir, that I came here with no set purpose to engage in any controversy with the Governor. I came here in the face of a bitter opposition led by a selfish leadership in my own party, and without the political support of a so-called Liberal Party, which had blundered in handing over its organization to my opposition.

The Republican Ward Organization united with the Democratic Party and the Liberals to elect a Democrat, but thanks to the intelligence of my constituency, and their confidence in me as a Liberal, I carried my flag in triumph to the end, and now Mr. Speaker, I owe it to them, and you owe it to me to be patient when I speak for the last time, and perhaps never again, as a Member in defense of those Constitutional rights which by the working process of submission to committee, we deliberately deny them.

The people in my district are opposed to the evils and hypocrisies of the State and National Prohibition Laws. The Republicans of Philadelphia, by an overwhelming majority, joined with the Democratic Party and the newly organized Liberal Party to defeat a regularly nominated Republican candidate, not because he had promised to bridle the Public Service Commission and expose their weakness, but because they were determined to record their solemn protests against any candidate who opposed the repeal of the existing Snyder-Armstrong Act in this Commonwealth.

Three hundred and fifty thousand voters in Philadelphia supported a Democrat in this rock-ribbed Republican city because he had given some assurance of fair play with the Constitution, and our Bill of Rights. One hundred and eleven thousand voted for the Governor, and many of these like myself supported him because he was the regular nominee. Three to one in Philadelphia and your committee says, "Prohibition is not an issue." Is there a Member of this House who will not admit that the election of his Excellency was entirely due to the splendid organization of the Republican State Committee, and the political hopes of others who still wait for the "plums" to fall after this Session is over?

Will you for one moment assert that over one million voters who voted for a candidate pledged to assist in the repeal of this law, or even a modification of it, are not entitled to be heard upon the floor of this House? One million voters—what an army this would be to invade Harrisburg—what if they were standing outside this building, rapping at those iron doors, with seldge hammers and crow bars, demanding admission! Would your Committee on Law and Order be prepared to explain why their petitions were ignored?

One million men and women, not much less than one-half of the entire vote in Pennsylvania, and you tell me they are not entitled to be heard? One million voters, an army far greater than those which met not far from here at Gettysburg, they settled an issue. They settled it at the sacrifice of life and limb—you settle it in the seclusion of a committee room by some thirty members of this House, most of whom do not represent districts, with one-third the vote represented in our large cities, and these thirty members, or a majority of them—sixteen if you please—can tell these one million voters what they are entitled to have. Is this in keeping with the wisdom of our fathers? Is this the kind and character of government they organized when they dedicated it to the proposition that all men are created free and equal? Have the people of this Commonwealth so forgotten all that we profess as a free people as to delegate to sixteen members of a legislative committee, the final word on matters which affect their life and happiness? But, Mr. Speaker, you may say that their word is not final inasmuch as motions can be made to discharge committees, and place a bill upon the calendar. I grant you, Sir, that this is true, but it takes one hundred and five votes to withdraw a bill from a committee, and when such motion is made upon the floor of this House, you admonish the members not to discuss the merits of the bill.

One hundred and five votes—votes enough to pass a bill—and just enough to take the same from the committee, and, Mr. Speaker, when a member interested in his bill and the rights of those for whom he speaks, makes such an effort to withdraw the bill, you seal his lips and forbid all argument and discussion. It seems to be against the rules of this House to talk about it, or to explain the bill—what, then, can a sponsor do? Is he to indulge in idle personalities and complain of discourtesies, or is it more reasonable to discuss the bill, and make its merits known to members of the House without offense to anyone in charge of such committee? What are we here for? Is this a legislative assembly? Or is it a factory that simply assembles the parts and sends them to the bindery to be labeled "Laws of 1931"? I ask you again. Mr. Speaker, what are we here for? If a legislative committee is to be some kind of a supreme tribunal with original and final jurisdiction, and their judgment is not to be reviewed, then sir, I suggest that an appropriation be made to purchase two rubber stamps, one for your desk, and one for the Senate, and notify the chairman to bring in all bills, those indefinitely postponed and those to be negatived, and have your Chief Clerk simply stamp them with these words:

"All Appeal to this House Denied"

but, Mr. Speaker, what can I say to my constituents at home? Shall I tell them that one million voters, paying millions in taxes, are here represented by these sixteen members of the Law and Order, and that the rest of us have under the Constitution nothing to say, nothing to discuss, and nothing to vote upon? Is this a representative government? The Soviet Organization in Russia would cease to function if such representation was denied the people, and Mr. Speaker, is it fitting and proper that such bills should die in committee without any apology for the killing? Can you tell me what there was about my referendum that could not stand the light of day? Are the people of this Commonwealth indifferent to all that vitally concerns them in their political and social policies and not to be trusted? Has the manhood and womanhood of this Commonwealth fallen so low in the estimation of this committee that they are to be totally ignored and denied the freedom for which alone we have ever raised our flag high as an emblem to the world, or, Mr. Speaker, has this Assembly laid aside all sense of responsibility and justice, and for the sake of petty political rivalry and advantage trampled upon the inherent rights of a free people, in the assurance that they will soon forget the insults? Our people are sometimes slow to action, but in the end, always just, and he that thinks now that this denial of a constitutional right will be forgotten had better take heed and remember that taxation without representation is as much a tyranny as it was 166 years ago.

The same courage that led men to dump the tea in Boston Harbor, or to demand liberty or death, is still alive It needs nothing more, Sir, than a call to arms to provide new safeguards for our future security and happiness.

I call upon the press with its far reaching influence to awaken the conscience of our citizenship. I summon the men who lead in spiritual thought to preach and pray for an honest government and for men with convictions and courage. I plead with the lawyers who remain faithful to the great charter of our liberties, the patriotic societies who at all times heretofore have enlisted men in the service of God and Country. It is to these I look hopefully forward to the reawakening of that courage which dares to do right, because it is right so to do, and not for the personal advantage of any man or set of men to restore this government to the people, and to encourage freedom of speech and freedom of discussion here and elsewhere in obedience to the mandate of our fathers.

I denounce the rule now in existence which requires a majority vote of all the members of this House to recall a bill from committee. It develops a false ego in those who control such committee. It gives rise to needless suspicion and encourages secret combinations in opposition to the general welfare. Committees frequently give but little consideration to to any bill. I take it, Sir, that committees are essential to the orderly disposition of business as it comes to this House, and that there are many bills which are of such a frivolous nature that it would serve no useful purpose to place them on the calendar but on the major propositions which embody issues, discussed and considered by the people at large, there should be no such power to deny citizens their day on this floor.

Far better, Sir, to change these rules, and to provide that seventy-five members shall be sufficient to recall a bill and give assurance to the people that this is in fact a deliberative assembly.

The curse of this Country today is too much politics, and government by unseen powers. It is time to come back to the altar of justice, for it was upon this altar that we dedicated our Constitution and our laws. Why talk about law enforcement and law breakers, and complain of those who are hardened by transgressions, when the fault lies at our own door. It is for us to preserve the spirit of our Constitutions. It is for us to set before the world an example of our fidelity to law and order.

Any government is worth having, which the people respect, and which is worth respecting, no matter what its form, but the overwhelming selfish ambition of men, who, for a time, control the political machinery of your State and Nation defeats the popular will. Human rights and personal liberty are subordinated to the petty ambitions of men who aspire to power and office, and elections today seldom record the real sentiment of a people on any given question, but rather the organized power behind interests and men.

On the great issues of the day, the farmer has been arrayed against the mechanic in the city, and the man with a straw in his mouth and some hay seed in his hair seems to hold the balance of power, while he waits patiently for his political representatives to gather a few "plums" when the Executive shakes the tree. This is why living issues and burning questions of the hour are sacrificed upon the altar of selfishness and momentary political advantage.

The utilities and big interests of your State are not alone at fault, they are like the moth that seeks the flame, and they seek favor where they expect to find it. It is only when someone capable of leadership captures the popular pulse by platitudes and promises that the ordinary race of men look hopefully forward to a new era in the political and social life of this State, only to find later on that such promises could not be fulfilled and that their hopes have been in vain.

There is only one escape from such an unfortunate situation. The power of the people as represented in the legislative body must remain free and uncontrolled by executive power. Committees may function in a legitimate way to determine whether or not any given measure is of general interest and advantage, but never to destroy the roots of popular government in this Assembly. We have today in Pennsylvania because of this system of government of minorities, by minorities for majorities, and not a government of the people.

As a result of this cursed restriction upon the freedom of legislation, we have failed to give ear to the voice of our people. The bootlegger will hail with delight the joyful assurance that the Committee on Law and Order has decreed that his business shall not be interfered with. The favorite few who lead this procession of crime and corruption will take renewed courage, and the criminal classes will grow richer in their accumulation of wealth and power, and find new victims to corrupt our government, and add more disrespect for honest government so manifest today. When the honorable members of this committee shall have returned to their barnyards and rail fences, a more grateful committee representing the free and untramelled voice of an honest and tolerant Americanism will erect over the grave of this child of mine a slab with these words:

"Gone but not forgotten".

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia under a question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for the purpose of amendment and for further consideration.

Mr. WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STRICKLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is not on the files.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the bill is being filed at this time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, the reason that I am making the motion to recommit this bill is simply this, your committee on Public Utilities considered this public utility legislation, when it was before us, and we have taken the position consistently all through our deliberations that the provisions giving the Governor the privilege to hire and fire should be in this legislation.

When the legislation came up for passage on the floor of the House, this House consistently took the position that that provision should be in the Public Utility legislation. It has been considered in this House and argued; considered at length on different occasions in the Committee of the Whole. After deliberation this House by its vote has placed in this Public Utility legislation the provision giving the Governor the power to hire and to discharge Public Service Commissioners.

Yesterday afternoon an amendment was made, when this bill was on second reading, which struck from the bill the provision which gave the Governor the right to hire and to discharge Public Service Commissioners, and I think this House having consistently taken this position, having in all this legislation put that provision in this bill, in order to be consistent, if we desire that legisation and the House thinks it should be in the legislation, the only way we can do it now at this stage of the proceedings is to send the bill back to the Committee on Public Utilities. Therefore, ladies and gentlemen, I have made this motion, in order that this matter might come before the House and in order that we might continue, if we desire so to do, to consistently vote in the manner we have voted throughout the session and that, Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen, is the reason that this motion is made.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I thought yesterday that this House was taking a very big stand, that it realized that there were needed changes in the Public Service Company Law, and that there were certain changes in the Public Service Company Law upon which we were all in agreement. We might not be in agreement on some of the terms, but we were all in agreement upon the purpose and the object that we hoped to achieve. One thing that seems to have been more in disagreement than anything else was this question of the right of the Governor to hire and fire.

You passed a bill, which had been amended in this House, the Howell bill, that gave the Governor the right to hire and fire members of the Public Service Commission. That went to the Senate. Yesterday morning the Senate by a vote of thirty to twenty did not concur in our amendments. We know that the other legislation that has gone to the Senate on this question has met with defeat either in committee or on the floor of the Senate, and therefore, it seemed to me that it was a useless gesture to try to pass a bill here that had that provision in it and send it to the Senate, where we knew that there would be nonconcurrence, and that if we insisted upon ours and they insisted upon theirs there would be no legislation at all on it at the end of this session. I have said to you before and I think the newspapers this morning bear out what I said and confirm it, that this House and this Legislature will meet with the condemnation of the people of Pennsylvania if upon that issue alone we are going to stand and defeat legislation that is needed.

If this were a new provision in this act, then this House could say we have as much right to stand on our view as the Senate has to stand on its. But the law as it now is in Pennsylvania does not give such right to the Governor of Pennsylvania, because it is in dispute and because there has been a group in this House, true they have been in the minority, but there has been a group of members in this House who have not agreed with the majority of this House because the Senate has not agreed with the majority of this House, why should we not cast those things aside and get down to a basis of legislation that can be enacted?

We are now within twenty-four hours of the close of this session—yes; according to the clock, if it is not moved back tomorrow, we are less than twenty-four hours from the closing of this session. Every member of this House knows that the motion of the gentleman from McKean to send this bill back to committee means that the bill will be killed in committee, because there is no chance of its being reported back, with an amendment, so that it can go through.

If the gentleman from McKean wants to amend it, to make his position consistent, why doesn't he come here this morning and offer the amendments to this bill? He can either ask for unanimous consent to insert amendments or ask to have the vote by which the bill passed third reading reconsidered and get it back to second reading as we did yesterday and seek to put his amendment in. It does not seem to me, therefore, that this has the ring of sincerity to it. If we are to send this bill back to committee it will kill the bill and I warn the members of this House; I do more than that —I do not want to warn you, I want to plead with you not to do that, I want to say to you that if we are sincere in our belief in the changes that are needed in this Public Service Company Law, and there are changes that are needed, we ought to pass this bill. I say to you that this bill of Senator McClure's was carefully drafted to make a number of changes that are needed to be made; one pertaining to the issuance of securities, one pertaining to managerial contracts, another pertaining to appeals by which the Superior Court shall review the testimony and make its own separate findings. It had a provision in it for a people's counsel; you struck that out. We endeavored to put it into the Howell bill but you did not allow it. We have made no effort to insert it in the McClure bill. My only effort yesterday was to get a measure that could be passed, and I say to you again, and I do it with all sincerity, that I hope all the members of this House will cast their feelings aside, that they will not consider it from the standpoint of the person who is speaking to you, but that they will consider it from the standpoint of the best interests of the people of Pennsylvania for whom the Governor of this state for the past few months has been pleading that they need remedial legislation to help them to get justice from the utilities of this State.

I do not believe that this bill in the shape it is in is agreeable to many of the utilities of this State, but I do not care for that. I am trying to get the best legislation that it is possible for us to get. If the House cannot get everything that we want here in this House, if we cannot get all the legislation in the way that we want it, we members ought to be willing to pass this bill and get the best we possibly can. It is a compromise and let us be big enough to approach it from that standpoint.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I find myself in agreement, as I always want to be, with what our distinguished friend from Delaware, Mr. Turner, says. I regret that he said to the House that he hoped no one would consider this matter from his standpoint, because I think that no member of the House has made more intelligent efforts on this floor for legislation than my distinguished friend from Delaware County with whom I have such pleasant relations all the time I have been in the legislature, although he and I in this session have not always, unfortunately, agreed on legislation, but our personal relations have always been friendly.

He has made a very plausible argument and I agree with what he says, except, Mr. Speaker, that I do not agree with this: that if we get to the place where we may lose legislation the gentleman from Delaware County suggests that the only way we can save it is for the majority of this House, the two to one majority, that has put these provisions in this bill at different times, to recede from its position in order that those who disagree may have their way on this legislation.

Now, I agree with him we should have legislation, and I agree with him that we should pass on this question of the public utilities, and the House is ready to pass it if you please. They are ready to pass it if the people who are opposing the majority of this House, the consistent majority that has voted from time to time to put this provision in the bill—if the minority will recede, we will get some legislation, and it is a very unusual request for a man to suggest that the two to one majority of the House recede in order that we might have legislation.

I want to go further than that, Mr. Speaker. I did not take any part in this debate when this particular question was being debated on this floor, but I want to go on record as believing thoroughly in the provision that the Governor should hire and fire Public Service Commissioners, and I believe the law should be extended, and I believe that if it were not for the fact that the present Governor is Governor of Pennsylvania, many other men who are opposing this provision would believe in it. It is the law of the United States of America, and not very long ago the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion handed down reaffirmed and reestablished the right of the President of the United States to remove parties that he had appointed. Every lawyer in this state from the time of the passage of the Public Service Act thought that the Governor of Pennsylvania had the power to appoint and discharge. Nobody ever dreamed until the Benn case came down from the Supreme Court, in which it was decided then, to the astonishment to the members of the Bar, that the Public Service Commissioners were not appointees of the Governor.

Over in our sister state, the State of New York, the Governor not only has the power to hire and fire public service commissioners, but he has the power, as set out in this bill, not only over the public service commissioners, but he has the power, when charges are preferred, to remove mayors, to remove district attorneys, to remove sheriffs and other public officers. Every one in this House is familiar with the procedure now pending in the State of New York by which charges were preferred against District Attorney Crain of New York. Mr. Justice Seabury is now hearing the testimony. A little while prior to that, charges were preferred against Mayor Walker of the City of New York before the Governor.

They have not only established this principle, but they have gone further with it, and they have not had any trouble with it. The Federal government has not had any trouble with it, and I want to go on record on this floor in believing in this principle, that there should be somebody standing here and someone ought to have authority to hire and fire these public service commissioners. The House has consistently stood for this legislation, your committee on Public Utilities has put it in the bill. We believe in it, and we recommend it to the House, and we have at different times by a two to one accepted it, and we ask the House to be consistent. The newspapers are already saying this morning that the House of Representatives have stood for this legislation throughout the session, and at the end have foozled out and taken the provision out of the bill.

I say to the gentleman from Delaware County that we can get this legislation, we can get public utility legislation, but it is an absurd proposition to say that a two to one majority of the House should recede from their position, and allow the minority to run it in order that we may have legislation.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I take it that the issue before us now is, shall the bill have the reforms proposed by Governor Pinchot at this session or shall we delay them and leave them for another session. The responsibility for the delay will rest solely with the Governor's friends. The issue now in this bill is whether the reforms proposed by the Governor himself can be obtained by an affirmative vote on this bill. Will you for the sake of principle of hire and fire, which this Legislature has defeated on numerous occasions, prevent the people from having any good reforms that he has proposed, and for all of which we stand loyally behind him.

Mr. Speaker, the responsibility for delaying the reforms proposed will rest entirely on the Governor and his friends if this bill is recommitted.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Do I understand that the sole purpose of this motion to recommit is for the purpose of inserting in this bill the provision as to the right of the Governor to hire and fire?

Mr. WILSON. Yes, sir; you are correct.

Mr. WITKIN. Are you familiar with the fact that a similar provision inserted by this House was defeated in the Senate, in the Howell bill, by a vote of thirty to twenty?

Mr. WILSON. I so understand.

Mr. WITKIN. Do you agree with me that a vote of thirty Senators to twenty in the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania represents a large majority of the people of the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. WILSON. I would say that it was a very substantial vote in the Senate; yes sir.

Mr. WITKIN. So that your contention about receding to the minority would apply only to the House, and your argument would be reversed as respects the Senate, would it not?

Mr. WILSON. I am not making my argument to the Senate. I am pleading with my colleagues in the House, and urging them to stand fast. I see no reason why we should recede.

Mr. WITKIN. Are you in accord with this: That a similar provision in this bill giving the Governor the right to hire and fire would result in a similar vote in the Senate on this bill?

Mr. WILSON. I would simply be prophesying if I attempted to answer your question yes or no. I have no means of stating what the Senate might do.

Mr. WITKIN. Assuming that to be a fact, are you in accord with me that the provisions of this McClure bill contains legislation that is necessary to the public utilities of the state of Pennsylvania and contains legislation that is to the best interests of the people, exclusive of the right to hire and fire?

Mr. WILSON. The Committee on Public Utilities approved of the bill with the hire and fire provision in it. I do not see why we should approve it without it.

Mr. WITKIN. Do you still agree that the provisions contained in the McClure bill are provisions to the best interests of the public utilities and to the best interest of the people of the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WILSON. I don't know that I could deny that.

Mr. WITKIN. Then I assume by your inability to deny that, if you agree with me that this bill, exclusive of an additional provision, to wit: to hire and fire, is good legislation?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I don't say that. I will not vote for the bill if the hire and fire proposition is not in it, and in fact I would not say that I consider it good legislation.

Mr. WITKIN. I therefore presume that irrespective of any good legislation contained in the McClure bill that because you think the Governor should have the right to hire and fire, you can not vote for the bill even though it be to the best interests of the state of Pennsylvania?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to vote for the bill if the hire and fire proposition is not in it.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, that is all.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just want to say one word. I do not think that any intelligent person could have listened to the interrogation and have come to any conclusion other than the fact that this McClure bill, as explained by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, contains legislation that is necessary to the best interests of the state of Pennsylvania. I do not think that there is any person within the hearing of my voice but who must agree with me that the provision of hire and fire will never pass the Senate of the state of Pennsylvania. We did not have to be within the last twenty-four hours of the session to know that the Senate has consistently refused to insert the provision of hire and fire.

And now, the burden is on you. You are either going to give the people remedial legislation; you are either going to check the public utilities as the McClure bill checks them or you are going to refuse to pass legislation that your Committee says is good legislation, because this bill admittedly has been passed by the Public Utilities Committee on this House as being good legislation, because there is one provision cut of it, and that is the discredited provision, that the Governor shall have the right to hire and fire. If you don't pass this bill you have no legislation on the public utilities question to go on for the next two years; have no check upon them. At least let this Legislature when it will have adjourned tomorrow have passed some legislation that is going to check and correct the public utilities so that the people of Pennsylvania will have some protection by this body. If you don't the people of Pennsylvania will have no protection against the public utilities of Pennsylvania, and the burden will be upon you.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Mumford.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Warren permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MUMFORD. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he did not present the amendments to this particular bill that were agreed upon by the House?

Mr. MUMFORD. I did.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he believes if this bill is sent back to committee that it is dead for the session?

Mr. MUMFORD. I would not say that. If the House wants the committee to consider the bill this afternoon, we can report it out here the next morning.

Mr. TALBOT. Then, Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman why his change of procedure from yesterday in amending on the floor to amending in the committee is necessary?

Mr. MUMFORD. I had nothing to do with the motion.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if it is necessary that this bill should go back to committee?

Mr. MUMFORD. No; the House can amend a bill at any time, if they so desire.

Mr. TALBOT. Thank you.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. TALBOT. The clause known as the hire and fire clause, was taken out of the McClure bill yesterday in the way of amendment, and if this bill goes back to the committee, the hire and fire clause, according to my belief, could not be inserted therein, and I ask for a ruling by the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that an amendment inserted in a bill or any amendment to a bill made by the House cannot be changed by a committee.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. I would be very glad to be interrogated by the gentleman from Delaware.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman hearing the ruling of the chair——

Mr. WILSON. I did not hear the ruling.

Mr. TALBOT. Will the Speaker state his ruling again?

The SPEAKER. The point of order was raised that an amendment to a bill having been made by the House, that that amendment could not be changed by a committee and the Chair ruled that the point of order was well taken.

Mr. TALBOT. I then, Mr. Speaker, ask the gentleman if he is willing to withdraw his motion?

Mr. WILSON. I am not.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is rather unfortunate that we should get into a long drawn out controversy in the few hours we have left, but it seems to me that every member of this House now is put upon his own record, because the motion has been made, asking the membership of this body to repudiate that which they did yesterday.

I rather refrain from calling things "unfair", because we are leaving here—possibly lots of us will not meet again—but it seems to me of all things done during the session not to permit the membership of this body to go on record to either give or not give the people of Pennsylvania that remedial legislation is decidedly unfair. The mandate we have been told is because of the hire and fire clause in this bill and in a few words, I would like to tell you what I believe is the mandate of the people. The Governor, as a part of his pre-election speeches, said that if he were elected, he would be willing to have a Fair Rate Board established—elected by the people, and we all know that finally when legislation was presented for us to vote upon, it was presented so that they be appointed by the Governor and removed by him. I say that the mandate of the people ceased when he repudiated his promise to have a Fair Rate Board elected by the people. Numerous reasons for this hire and fire clause were made by the gentleman from McKean, but having listened to the arguments on the floor of the Senate yesterday, I want to bring to your attention the question of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners appointed by the President. We were reminded there that four members of that body belonged to a minority party; we were also reminded that Congress meets at least once, and most of the time twice a year, where we in Pennsylvania meet only once in every two years, and therefore, the legislative branch, being set up as a check upon the executive, can work in so far as the federal government is concerned, but tell me, if you will, how the legislative branch of this government can function and check the executive if we are to meet only once in two years? This thing finally comes down to a question of personalities. Are we going to listen this morning to the Governor and his demands for this power that he asks for? The people gave him the power not to abuse when they elected him Governor of Pennsylvania but his set-up as it has been in this House of Representatives has created in him a lust for power, and he asks you and me to continue it after we leave this session. Is Pennsylvania today going to go on record and say, "We have set aside in that corner of the capitol this man who is drunk with power," and in the words of Patrick Henry, changing them and saying "Give me 'power' or give me death." I hope you will vote this motion down.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker I was almost convinced that this argument from my friends from Delaware County was a sincere one——

Mr. TALBOT. I resent that statement Mr. Speaker, if he is referring to me.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I resent the gentleman's interruption, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman, of course, will cast no reflection upon any member of the House.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from McKean has made a motion to recommit a bill and has stated that the sole purpose in recommitting that bill is to insert in it a provision to give the right to hire and fire and for no other purpose.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman's pardon. I did not intend to make such a statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state his point of order without any argument.

Mr. WITKIN. Without any interruption also, Mr. Speaker. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Talbot, has raised a point of order that the provision to hire and fire could not now be inserted in committee, and I take it that the motion before us, being for such a purpose, is not a proper one and should not be further discussed.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, to-wit: that the motion before the House is not a proper one, is not well taken.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I just want to state to the members, if you please, that I did not intend to state to the gentleman from Delaware that I made the motion for the purpose of amendment but that I made it for the purpose of further consideration.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I have changed my mind. After listening to the arguments advanced against this motion, it seems to me that the best argument is that we should vote on it, and put this motion over.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the interrogation, did not the gentleman from McKean admit that the sole purpose,—and when I put the question I believe you will agree with me that I used the words "sole purpose",—was to recommit for the purpose of inserting a hire and fire clause.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, if I did so that is not what I intended to do. I do not dispute your statement if you say I did that but I did not intend to do it. The significance of what you asked of me did not occur to me.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, now may I ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, what amendments he desires to insert in this bill for which he made a motion to recommit?

Mr. WILSON. I don't think, Mr. Speaker, I am called upon to answer that question.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman refuses, I will not press the question.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to answer any question if I can, but I decline to say what would happen in committee.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from McKean, what purpose he has, knowing that we only have twenty-four hours left, in recommitting a bill of such great importance when he has no particular amendment in mind?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of it, if we can, is to get this legislation in line with the legislation that has been framed by the House repeatedly and passed by a very large majority. Now, I say to the gentlman that there may be methods by which this bill can be amended in many particulars; I do not know, and I am not prepared now to say what amendments will be offered.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if that is the gentleman's best explanation, I have no further questions to ask.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I did not intend again to say anything upon this measure, as I feel that what was said a week ago in reference to the hire and fire feature and what was said yesterday is all of the argument that might be massed against it. I do feel, however, that there are one or two things that should be mentioned because we have gotten away from the real issue that is before us. We have discussed here the hire and fire feature which it seems to me is not exactly in order because this is a motion to recommit, but I cannot let the remark of the gentleman from Lawrence pass without saying something about it. He raised the question of the sincerity of the attack, and I say to you, and I trust that the members of this House, with many of whom I have served during a number of terms here, will believe me when I say to you honestly that I am making a sincere and honest attempt to put through legislation that is needed.

There can be no question that this is the real issue now before this House; there can be no question but that the motion of the gentleman from McKean clothed in whatever language you desire to clothe it, goes to the purpose that this bill shall not be presented to this House for final passage but shall die in committee, because while he has refused to state under interrogation his purpose in recommitting it, he has very frankly told the House that he would not be in favor of this bill unless it had in it that hire and fire feature, and the Chair having ruled that he cannot amend this bill in committee, the House having amended it yesterday, there can therefore be but one purpose for this motion, and that is that the bill shall die in committee and not get back to you again.

I have, of course, the greatest respect and regard for my colleague from McKean County, with whom I have served since I first came to this Legislature, but I want to say to the members of the House, let us forget all our personalities, let us forget about the Governor. We have talked a lot about him during the last four or five months. I have tried to refrain from making any personal references, because I have not considered that the Governor was the person in question, but what we are concerned with in this bill is the question of what power we are going to give to the Executive of this Commonwealth, an increased power to that which he already holds and which now exceeds that held by any executive of any Commonwealth in these United States. So I say to you again, let us approach this from a big standpoint, let us not be petty, and so while we insist on our views and the Senate insists on theirs, let us not be small, let us be big enough and if the Senate is wrong let us show them the right way to proceed:

let us show the people of Pennsylvania that they ought to have confidence in the House of Representatives. I have felt for a number of years that the time will come when this would become a real legislative body and stand on its own feet; a body that would operate and decide things according to the dictates of its own reasoning powers, and do what is necessary for the people of Pennsylvania.

I say to you again let us approach this question from that standpoint. Let us forget, if we can, whether we are in the minority or the majority in the House. Let us approach this amendment from the standpoint that you cannot put back a hire and fire feature by the method that the gentleman from McKean suggests, and therefore, if you want legislation you are going to vote down this motion.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson, whether his conversion to the amendment of this bill, in the way that he now proposes, is an eleventh hour conversion?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, answering the question of the gentleman from York, I have to say that I have always, before this provision ever existed, believed in this particular provision and I believe in it now, and I think that it should be the law of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, am I misinformed when I say that it was my impression, from a conversation that I had with the gentleman over in the Senate chamber, that this bill, as it was amended yesterday by the gentleman from Delaware, would pass?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not remember saying any such thing to the gentleman from York. I only can reiterate the statement that I have made all through the session, and before the session until today, that this provision giving the Governor that power should be in our law; that the President of the United States should have it and that it is the general law all over the nation, particularly in all the states, and I believe in it for Pennsylvania. I don't remember having said any such thing.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I gathered that impression from my conversation with the gentleman this morning in the Senate chamber.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I may have given the gentleman that impression, but I knew nothing about the bill at that time.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, there was one statement that the gentleman from McKean made in the course of his argument that I do not believe is entirely correct; that is, that the Legislature and the people of Pennsylvania were always of the opinion that the power to hire and fire Public Service Commissioners should lodge in the executive department of the government. How such an impression as that could have arisen in the mind of any well informed person is inconceivable to me, because in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Benn, Judge von Moschzisker, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, did not make any new law; he reviewed precedents of cases, decided cases, in which the Courts. The Superior Court and the Supreme Court, having constantly held that the Public Service Law, that the Public Service Commission, that the right to make rates has from time immemorial lodged in the Legislative branch of the government, and that position was taken long before the act of 1913 creating the Public Service Commission was passed; so that if the gentleman will refresh his memory with respect to the law in this cae I think he will undoubtedly find that in giving the Governor the right to hire and fire we are surrendering as a Legislature a very valuable and very important function and prerogative of the Legislature and in surrendering this very important function we are turning the same over to the Executive, whoever he may be, not only for the present but for the future.

And so, in order that the Legislature may assert its own rights and may preserve its own dignity and its own integrity, it seems to me that the wise course is to stand where we have always stood in this matter and permit this great function to remain where it has always stood, namely, in the Legislative body.

Mr. KLECKNER. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I do not agree with the gentleman from McKean as to the Federal question and its analogy to the State, and probably he may recall that yesterday he said here, off the record, that we Legislators are comparable to angle-worms and rubber-stamps, and I ask his indulgence if he did make that remark in all due sincerity. It seems to me that when the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court said that he didn't suppose civilization would come to an end whichever way this question is decided, that that point is analagous to this question.

But, gentleman, various representations and pleas have been made all over the state and I ask you as an independent who has voted with the Administration and against the Administration, let us declare a truce, let us try to give the people something, let us try to advance one step in the right direction, and let us strive to stabilize this political and banking and industrial hysteria by advancing a step in the right direction, and vote against recommitting this bill, and then I plead with you to favor this bill and break the Senate deadlock, realizing that half a loaf is better than none, in an endeavor to remedy the situation in utility legislation.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have carefully listened to the discussion pro and con on this question. Taking it and boiling it down to its very essence from a common sense and practical view-point, this bill without the hire and fire clause represents the sum total of all legislative activity achieved at this legislative session. We know that the Senate and the House for some time have been hopelessly deadlocked on this hire and fire issue but if we eliminate the hire and fire issue so far as the rest of the bill is concerned both the members of the House and the members of the Senate are unanimously agreed, both branches are unanimously agreed that this is helpful legislation, they are unanimously agreed that this legislation will help the people of Pennsylvania in the regulation of our public utilities.

Now, the Speaker has just ruled a few minutes ago that the hire and fire clause cannot be inserted even if this bill is recommitted, so the question boils itself down; will you take this bill and enact it into law or are you ready to stand up and say "We are going to kill it" which means the death of the bill or the enactment of the bill into law. For that reason I do not see why we should permit this controversial issue to destroy a piece of legislation that every member of this House and every member of the Senate agrees would be beneficial to the people of Pennsylvania.

I, therefore, feel that this bill should not be recommitted and that we should not permit any personal animus to kill a valuable piece of legislation such as this bill. I hope the motion to recommit will be voted down and that the legislation will be enacted into law for the benefit of the people of this commonwealth.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Wilson, do you not think that it would be better for the people of Pennsylvania to pass this bill in its present form than to have it killed?

Mr. WILSON. I do not.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Do you not realize that the House and the Senate are in absolute deadlock on this question of hire and fire?

Mr. WILSON. I have so understood but I do not think——

Mr. BALDRIGE. Do you not realize in the face of the ruling of the Speaker and the point of order by Mr. Talbot that this hire and fire amendment cannot now be inserted in this bill?

Mr. WILSON. Cannot now be inserted in this bill by the Committee; that is true.

Mr. BALDRIGE. And do you not realize that in this bill there are some very good points that will be to the distinct benefit of the people if it is enacted into law?

Mr. WILSON. With the hire and fire provision I approve of the bill; without it I do not.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Thank you. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I do not desire or intend to tire you with any more debate on this bill, but I agree most heartily with the remarks of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Sarig. It is high time to come down to common sense and lay aside personality. We owe to the people of Pennsylvania this kind of legislation and I ask you to vote this motion down and to pass this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Baldrige and Mr. Wilson.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

NAYS—0

The majority requred by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2045 (Senate Bill No. 1013), entitled:

An Act prohibiting the killing wounding capturing or hunting of foxes by certain methods in the counties of Delaware Chester Montgomery Berks Lancaster Westmoreland and

Allegheny making the possession of a fox or fox hide prima facie evidence of a violation and fixing penalties

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, I am somewhat reluctant to arise and oppose a bill that has been sponsored by the Senator from our county, but I am required to do so to take care of the interests of my constituents.

Senate Bill No. 1013, known as the fox hunting bill, includes Berks County. There are few people in Berks County, not over a dozen that want this bill. I have petitions with hundreds of names on against the bill. The proponents of this bill want to do this; they want to go out fox-hunting on horseback. There are some poor sports who stand in the brush and shoot foxes away from the rider and I believe sports like that should be punished, but in order to do that they take away the privilege of fox hunting away from every other person in the county.

In the northern border of our county we have a few mountainous sections infested with foxes and we cannot get at them with a horse and you cannot kill them any way except by hunting them with hounds. Across the border in Schuylkill County they can kill foxes any way they want to. They get the benefit. In practice we are not allowed to kill foxes unless we get a license. Therefore, I am compelled to ask you to vote no on this proposition. Berks County is not the only one that is opposed to this bill, The Federated Sportsmens' Association, having one hundred and sixty thousand members, are opposed to the bill and we cannot see why we should legislate for the benefit of a few people to have their sport at the expense of the sport of hundreds of others.

As I stated before, there are a number of people who want fox hunting with horses and hounds and the privilege is theirs; nobody is opposing them, but there are hundreds of people who desire to hunt foxes; some trap them along the mountains and quite a number of farmers have come to me and told me that they come into hen houses and take the chickens out of the hen houses, they destroy the nests of turkeys.

The bill says they may be killed when in the act of pursuing, and wounding and killing, but the fox, members of the House, does not come around when the farmer is in the hen house and he does not see them in the act of pursuing, wounding and killing. Therefore, we believe the bill is only in the interest of a few people as against the interests of the great majority of hunters of Pennsylvania. They say that there are only seven counties in this bill, but there are many bordering counties. For instance, a hunter may have a fox on chase or on track in Schuylkill, Lebanon, or Bucks or any bordering county. The fox usually will not be found in a small field but will have a wide range and will cross the border into another county and the hunter in Berks County will have to let that fox go because he has no license to go hunting in a restricted county, and for the interest of the common man and for the interest of the large majority of the sportsmen of Pennsylvania, I ask you to vote no on this bill

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken

MINORITY REPORT OF INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE UNDER RESOLUTION No. 10

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to file a report to the House of Representatives in the General Assembly of Pennsylvania by Frank L. Bowers and myself, members of the House Committee to Investigate the Public Service Commission and the Utilities under House Resolution No. 10 of the session of 1931, and ask that it be spread upon the Journal.

On April 27th, we, as members of the House Committee Investigating the Public Service Commission and the utilities, made a "Preliminary Report" on the matters considered by that Committee. It was contemplated, at that time, that a "Final Report" would be made to the House that it might have the information before it in passing upon legislation. On Monday, May 25th, a report was submitted to the House to which was attached a report from the counsel of the Committee on the testimony. The report of the counsel was not submitted to us and we never saw it until the report was offered during the session of the House on Monday night. The report of the Committee was submitted to Mr. Turner, but was not submitted to Mr. Bowers.

Mr. Turner refused to sign the report and we believe the reason therefor will be apparent upon a study of this report.

The subject involved is so vast that the investigation could but skim the surface. It is also so evident that the testimony was so built to sustain the contentions of the complainants, that we could wish for further testimony on many subjects. A consideration of the approximately 5200 pages of the testimony must leave one desiring the other fellow's argument or construciton of the facts in many instances. We believe that the issue is so vital to the people of Pennsylvania that the Public Service Commission should have digested the testimony and have given us the benefit of their knowledge on many points. True, some of the members of the Commission did appear before the Committee and testify on some points, but we feel that more specific and more explicit information could have been given. Also the Commission asked leave to submit a statement, which was refused by Chairman Moore on the ground that the members did not appear with it so that they could be examined.

Likewise we should have liked to have heard the utilities on many of the "Exhibits" produced by the Governor's experts, which were introduced to prove "book investment", valuations, rates and other questions. The Pennnsylvania Electric Association asked to be heard, but as they were refused a time which they asked, and offered one after the "Preliminary Report" of the House Committee was made, they declined to accept.

One may say that the Commission and the utilities, not having answered the testimony, must be bound by the record. Still it must be remembered that we are expected to deal with legislation based on this investigation, and therefore the Legislature and the people of the State have a vital interest in securing every possible fact upon which to base their judgment as to the propriety of legislation that may come before the General Assembly. The Governor and the utilities may have a personal squabble, but legislation is the concern of all the people. Outside the investigation, we have learned many things that bear upon the questions involved, but they are not on the record where they would controvert the testimony.

While we are concerned here with the regulation of the utilities of this State, the question in the form in which it appears and the contentions which have been made by the complainants against these utilities, is not a new one.

Business travels in cycles. Prosperity prevails, inflation follows, then depression. The present crisis is more severe because it follows a war in which the whole world was involved. The economic depression which now exists is, in part, the price we pay for war and must be reckoned apparently as a seemingly unavoidable stage in the consequence of events. Each period of depression produces demagogues, political quacks with cure-alls for the so-called wrongs of the people which always appear to be pronounced when the pocket is empty, and the campaign of the Governor against the utilities is but a repetition of past history. At such times the blame is placed, and the results are accredited, to man-made laws rather than to economic laws. Men forget that the period through which we are passing is a natural result and not an artificial one, and immediately seek to change the condition by creating new laws.

The fundamental problem herein involved may be found in the history of this nation at its very beginning in the difference of opinion and of political reasoning between the Hamiltonian theory of the protection of "property rights" and the protection of business as founding the surest means of prosperity and providing for the welfare and the happiness of the people; as opposed to the Jeffersonian theory of the so-called supremacy of "human rights".

It is but the old cry against big business phrased in different words, that has been heard for a long time.

The question concerning the Public Service Commission and the utilities is but a different presentation of the same thing. Beneath it is the claim that the rates charged to the people are too high because they produce too great earnings; that, as the utility is a semi-public institution by right of its exclusive franchise, its earnings should be limited and that the benefits that accrue from greater earnings should go into the pockets of the public rather than to the stockholders. It is not our intent here to discuss these problems, but merely to set up the facts.

These are charges against the agency of the Legislature, the Public Service Commission, which, it is claimed, is the "cat's paw" of the utilities. This is founded upon the same preposition as above, to wit—that if the earnings of the utilities are too great, the Public Service Commission must have failed in its duty to the people by not lowering the rates. Hence, the whole issue must evolve upon the question as to whether the rates are too high.

The utilities are corporations legally created under the laws of the State. Their securities are held by banks, saving funds, insurance companies, investment trusts, employes, and other individuals. It was said by the United States Supreme Court in the Minnesota rate case, 30 U. S. 352, that "the property of a utility is held in private ownership and the owner may not be deprived of that property without due process of law". The utility is, therefore, a person in the same sense as any other citizen in so far as its rights are protected under the Constitution and its right to be heard in court are concerned.

The government exists to maintain that inalienable right of every man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Its laws must be based upon the greatest good to the greatest number, remembering that the minority must likewise be protected in its rights. Our Constitution protects every man in his propetry. Only by this means can we have orderly government.

The utilities are entitled to justice and a fair trial. A verdict must only be rendered after due consideration of all of the evidence produced (and this we have said leaves much to be desired). Neither the clamors of the mob, innuendo, heresay, or evidences of guilt conjured by prejudiced and highly imaginative minds, must be considered.

As we said in our preliminary report, we can only judge from the testimony before us. The House Committee was not a court, and evidence was introduced that would not be admissible in a court, but such testimony must thereby be scrutinized most carefully, and allowed to influence our opinion only after the most careful consideration.

Too much is at stake. No one has contended that all of the utilities come within the indictment. There are bad spots; things that need correction; laws that need amending; new regulations to be made; but to sweep aside seventeen years of experience and to change the law to meet demands that have been based upon half-truths may damage all the people by hasty and drastic legislation.

No one denies that there are needed changes in our Public Service Company Law (which former Attorney General Woodruff and others who testified before the House Committee say is the best in the country). It would be abused to contend that there may not be utilities whose rates could well be reduced, giving advantage to the public. But there is no disputing the fact that the laws and the practices of the Public Service Commission, under which the utilities have existed in Pennsylvania, have enabled the utilities (especially the telephone, gas and electric), to expand and improve their service, and to reduce the cost to the consumer while producing earnings of a character that have enabled them in the past year, during the business depression, to meet the call of the President for the expenditure of money to a great degree. The utilities of Pennsylvania pay a large amount in taxes to the State. While these taxes are paid out of the pockets of the rate payers as they are charged to operating expenses, still they are paid upon the capital stock value of the companies. Decreases in earnings are taken into consideration in figuring the capital stock tax return. Hence, if we legislate so as to hurt these industries, we curtail service and betterments; we cut off extensions and improvements that will help to relieve business depression; we cut the revenues of the State that is reflected in the ability of the State itself to help relieve business depression by expenditures for improvements.

As statd above, the indictment of the Public Service Commission must be predicated upon the findings that the rates charged by the utilities are too high.

But as rates are based on the fair value of the property of the corporation used in the public service, as has above been mentioned, and as there is no determination as to the fair value of the properties, there is no evidence that the rates are too high and hence this indictment must fall. You cannot say that the Public Service Commission is the "cat's paw" of the utilities unless you prove that rates are too high and the Commission has failed to keep them fair.

The utilities of Pennsylvania and the Public Service Commission have been indicted on charges brought by the Governor of this Commonwealth, and have been hailed before the bar of the House for trial by an Investigating Committee, the majority of whose members have been, during this session, servile followers of the Governor. The evidence to prove the charges has been almost wholly produced by experts employed by the Governor. They, together with counsel for the Committee, are being paid out of the executive funds.

The charges as taken from the addresses and messages of the Governor are:

1. That the public utilities have unfairly taken from the people of this Commonwealth, by reason of the unrestrained power of public utilities to set their own rates, a toll that amounts to many tens, if not hundreds, of millions of dollars every year.
2. That the unrestrained political interference of the utilities has made it a question of who shall rule.
3. The Public Service Commission is the "cat's paw" of the utilities.

None of these charges have been proven by the testimony submitted before the House Investigating Committee.

The fact that the charges were not proven but that the testimony to a great extent bore upon the question of earnings and the valuation policy of the Public Service Commission, the fact that the report signed by the majority of the House Investigating Committee and approved by the observers appointed by the Governor endorsed legislation introduced by the Governor in the House and steam-rollered through that body in the face of the admission by the proponents of the bills that they needed amendment, that these bills were on eminent legal authority shown to be unconstitutional, can but lead to the logical conclusion that the object sought to be obtained by the Executive is to abolish the present Public Service Commission so that a new Commission can be appointed whose minds will follow the political and economic theories of the Governor. Secondly, to bring the Public Service Commission into the executive branch of the government so that the Executive can enforce upon the Public Service Commission his economic theories by reason of his power to hire and fire, and third, to amend the Public Service Company Law so that the Public Service Commission will be compelled to accept the economic theories of valuation demanded by the Executive, which, in themselves, are unconstitutional, and require legislative devices if they are to stand the test of the courts. And fourth, to enforce a new theory that return must be limited to a certain amount on investment and not fair value.

What these theorists really favor is governmental ownership. It is but the first step towards that end. It is liked with the policites of LaFollette, Norris, and the other so-called insurgents of the United States Senate. The many comparisons in the testimony before the House Committee to municipal ownership and operation of utilities, must indicate this to the reader.

A perusal of the inaugural address of the Governor and his address to the Legislature made on February 10, 1931, will show that his theme has been that the earnings of the utilities are too high and that this is a toll taken unjustly from the rate payer. In the investigation before the House Committee, the only rates that were considered were gas, water, electricity, and bus, and very little of the latter. Bus rates and the action of the Commission in reference to granting of certificates, are parts of the testimony where information off the record raises doubts as to its correctness and credibility. Neither telephone, railroad, nor trolley rates were considered. The question, therefore, narrows itself as to whether the rates of gas, water and electric companies are too high.

The counsel for the Committtee, appointed by the Governor, who marshalled the testimony and the witnesses, sought to prove that the earnings of the utilities as figured upon their book investiment less depreciation, was greater than a 7% return, and from this, that the Commission should have instituted complaints looking to the reduction of the rates.

Such a contention is misleading and not based upon the sound legal findings as laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States and followed by the appellate courts of Pennsylvania and by the Public Service Commission that rates are based upon the fair value of the property used by the corporation to supply its commodity to the public. The Public Service Commission has based that fair return as 7% of the fair value under the law as laid down by the courts. Hence, earnings upon book cost or the amount invested have nothing to do with the question as to whether rates are fair or unfair. Large earnings may be indications that might put a legislative body on notice that it would be necessary to investigate conditions. This the Public Service Commission did in 1930 and 1931, but we believe it should have been more active in so doing.

There were a number of statements on the part of the public, as represented by officials of sixty boroughs and ten cities, that the public had lost confidence in the Public Service Commission, and that the cost of rate cases were too high. A fair analysis of this evidence will disclose that a great many of these complaints were based upon misunderstanding of the law, and largely upon the fact that contracts with utilities, by which the municipality received free service, had been abrogated by the Commission. The courts, however, decided that such contracts are discriminatory and therefore the Commission could only follow the decisions of the courts. A great many municipalities also complained as to the price charged for fire hydrants. There was a great variety of rates. Rate making is one of the most difficult problems in utility operation. However, the rates, as has been said above, are based upon the return upon the value of the property. If the price on the hydrants is reduced, this sum by which it is reduced, would have to be charged in the rates paid by the average consumer. So that the people would either have to pay it directly in their rates, or indirectly by taxation in paying for the fire hydrants. The public undoubtedly does not understand this and it is one of the sources of discontent with utility operation. But this should not be charged to the Commission.

The cost of rate cases likewise cannot be charged to the Commission as it is incident to the ascertaining of valuation. Greater appropriations would be necessary for the Commission to secure experts to help the municipalities in their cases. A People's Counsel, who would represent these complaints, has also been suggested. No attempt has been made by the Administration to help in this respect.

It was also contended on the part of some that the Commission acted as a court and waited for the complaints to be brought to it rather than to seek to assist the people. The Commission is a semi-judicial body and cannot be both investigator and court. While we believe with larger appropriations and a closer check on the reports of the utilities, some relief may be accomplished, at the same time it is only fair to the Commission to report that thousands of complaints are made to the Commission by individual citizens by letter and are disposed of by the employees of the Commission without cost to the people.

These matters, we believe, can be better remedied by some minor changes in the law, by larger appropriations and by administrative action on the part of the Commission which will result from a better understanding of the problem, than by drastic and sweeping changes in the whole structure.

As the political activities of the utilities, official and employees were brought before the House Committee, as well as some individuals who had participated in the elections of last year, in an endeavor to prove this point. Such proof absolutely failed to show other than officials and representatives of the utilities had voted for or engaged in elections of last year. As the utilities were under attack by one of the candidates, it cannot be seriously contended by anyone that they did not have the right, as citizens, to enter into the campaign and to work against that candidate whom they believed was hostile to their interests. No use of utility funds for political purposes was shown, nor was there any evidence of any combination or alliance with any of the dominant political factors for the purpose of electing any candidates. The utilities were under fire in the campaigns and the meagerness of the evidence must bring the conclusion that the indictment was not founded upon fact.

Let us repeat that the basic source of misunderstanding is in the ignorance as to the base upon which value is founded, upon which return is estimated and rates computed. Also upon a lack of knowledge of the law and of misunderstanding of the functions of the Commission and its limitations in many matters pertaining to the functions of the Commission.

All of this could have been readily remedied by a broad and friendly inquiry into the complaints and a fair and intelligent approach to the legislative remedies necessary to produce the most effective regulation. To approach it in a partisan and biased spirit could but produce drastic legislation that would create suspicion and antagonism and work harm to a great industry at a time when business depression made it essential to do anything possible to bolster business. To create uncertainty as to legislative action and the effect of new laws would but stifle the expenditure of money and create curtailed revenues that would be reflected in the earnings of the stockholders and the ability to finance the industry. This could but in the end be reflected in the value of securities which would affect not only the stockholders and employes, but the financial institutions which hold many of these securities.

If out of these criticisms and contentions can come constructive legislation and a better understanding of the problems involved, much can be gained. But if it leads to strife which will create uncertainty in the industry, curtail expenditures and create distrust and antagonism on the part of the people, the economic effect will be felt by all the people.

While much that is hereinafter set forth has been briefly mentioned in the foregoing statement, we believe that this report, to be comprehensive, might well enlarge upon many of those statements and might also well discuss the Public Service Commission, valuation and recommendations as to changes in the law which have come out of the testimony and the discussion in the House investigation.

To understand the problems in Pennsylvania, one should first go into the history of the regulations in this State.

The first attempt by the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to regulate in any way the service of public utilities companies is found in the provisions to clause 3 and 7 of Sections 34 of the Act of April 29, 1874, P. L. 73. The proviso to clause 3 of Section 34 of said act authorized any citizen to complain to the court of common pleas of the proper county, of the impurity or deficiency in quantity of any gas or water furnished, and the court was given power after hearing to make such order as to it seemed just and equitable. The proviso to clause 7 of Section 34 of said act gave the court of common pleas jurisdiction on the petition of any user of any gas or water furnished by any company to hear, inquire and determine as to the charges made therefor, and to decree that the charges be decreased as to the court might seem just, and to enforce obedience to such decrees.

The Act of June 4, 1883, P. L. 72, declared unlawful and undue or unreasonable discrimination by any common carrier or by any officer or agent thereof in charges or in facilities for the transportation of freight within the State, or coming from or going to any other State, and constituted direct regulation by the Legislature itself.

The next act of the Legislature constituting direct regulation of a public service company was the Act of May 24, 1907, P. L. 229, which fixed the maximum charge to be made on each carload and not unloaded within the free time for loading and unloading the same. The act also fixed the free time.

The first law to regulate public service companies through an agency of the Legislature was the Act of May 31, 1907, P. L. 337. This act created a Railroad Commission consisting of three members appointed by the Governor by and with the consent of the Senate. The commission was given power to inquire into the management and the business of all common carriers and of matters incident to their public duties and their compliance with the provisions of their charters and the law of the land, including freight and passenger rates and tariffs, the equitable distribution of cars, the granting of sidings and regulation of crossings, etc. The common carriers which the commission was authorized to regulate included not only railroad and street railway companies but pipe line companies, drawing room car companies, and telegraph and telephone companies. The commission was given power to issue subpoenas and enforce obedience thereto, to hold hearings and make decrees and enforce the obedience thereof, and had many of the rights now exercised by the Public Service Commission.

The Act of May 31, 1907, P. L. 352, No. 252, prohibited companies incorporated to conduct the business of a common carrier, to prosecute or engage in mining or manufacturing articles for transporation over its works.

The Act of May 31, 1907, P. L. 352, No. 253, prohibited any discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation, between transportation companies and individuals, or in favor of either, by abatement, drawback or otherwise, and prohibited any such company from making any preference in furnishing cars or motive power.

The Act of May 31, 1907, P. L. 353, prohibited the consolidation of parallel or competing lines of railroads, canals, or other companies.

The Act of May 31, 1907, P. L. 354, prohibited unreasonable discrimination between charges or facilities for transportation of freight or passengers, and gave all individuals, associations and corporations equal right to have persons and property transported over railroads and canals.

On the third day of April, 1911, there was introduced in the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth, House Bill No. 875, entitled "An act defining public service companies; prescribing and defining and limiting the powers of public service companies.....; establishing a public service commission for the supervision and regulation of such companies, etc." This bill passed the House on May 15, 1911, by a vote of 176 to 11, but was defeated on second reading in the Senate by a vote of 17 for and 29 against. The bill presented in 1911 and defeated in the Senate was very similar to the bill presented at the session of 1913 which became the Act of July 26, 1913, P. L. 1374, the present Public Service Company Law.

The Public Service Company Law was designed primarily to protect the interest of the public in fair rates and to safeguard it from exploitations by utility companies. The Public Service Commission was created under this law to exercise the powers granted to it, to see that the utility secured a fair return while protecting the consumer against unfair and discriminatory rates. While the Commission had not control over the issuance of securties, it had certain powers to make public such facts as it might glean from statements filed with the Commission as the Commission might deem for the public benefit. It would also have the right, if it found security issues to be illegal, to refer the matter to the Attorney General for action.

The Commission was granted the power, under the law, to fix the rates, and no public service company can institute new rates without filing schedules with the Commission. If the Commission desires, it may institute a complaint on its own motion, or any person may, within thirty days, file a complaint against the company, whereupon the matter comes before the Commission for hearing and the parties produce their evidence to sustain their contentions.

While there are many other provisions pertaining to regulation, the foregoing are the essential provisions of the acts in which the people are most concerned.

And now after seventeen years of operation, complaints are made against the Commission appointed under this law.

The chief grievance on the part of the people, as shown by the testimony before the House Investigating Committee, was that they had failed to institute rate cases, that such cases cost a great amount of money, and that they felt that they had no chance before the Public Service Commission as against the utilities.

According to a statement of the Public Service Commission in the past ten years 76% of the railroad rate cases have been decided as against the utility and in favor of the public. Twenty-five cases in which the Commission found the value have been appealed from the Commission to the Superior Court in the last ten years. Of these, five only have been reversed, and in each of these cases the reversal was on the ground that the rates were too low. Surely, under such circumstances, the evidence does not, in the absence of anything else, tend to prove that the Commission leans to the utility as against the public. In electric rates, according to the testimony of Mr. Atwill of the Massachusetts Commission, the average of rates in that State are about on a par with Pennsylvania.

Another source of complaint was as to the increase in rates following the acquisition of some of the water companies by holding companies who "wrote up" the assets, issued securities thereon and then applied for an increase in rates, which were granted after hearings by the Commission. As this question is involved in both the question of valuation and of security issues which will be considered later, nothing further will be said here.

The question of cost of rate cases is one of the greatest causes of ill will by the public toward the Commission. Undoubtedly, many communities have been deterred in seeking redress before the Commission by reason of the cost that is inevitable in rate cases, where engineers and lawyers must be retained if their cases are to be presented to the Commission upon an equality with the representatives of the utilities. While it is claimed that the theory of valuation which exists in Pennsylvania which follows the Federal decisions, makes rate cases expensive, and that the "prudent investment" theory with the control of security issues will eventually produce less expensive and simpler procedure in rate cases, still there will of necessity be a considerable period of time during which values will have to be established for a property held at least prior to the date of the passage of such legislation which will mean that the same procedure will have to be followed for those years as has been followed in the past. Hence the people will not be relieved of this burden until proper machinery be set up to do so.

It is proposed by those interested in changing the law, that there should be little necessity for the municipality or the individual to institute rate proceedings but that the Commission itself should do so. This question was asked of Mr. Atwill of the Massachusetts Commission who appeared as a witness in the investigation, and he stated that no commission could hope to be both the prosecutor and the court in which the cases were to be tried; that no commission had the time to go out and hunt for places where complaints should be filed or rates reduced, but had all it could do to take care of the business that came before it.

In this connection, the Senate has recommended that a People's Counsel be established to help this situation. Either appropriations large enough to give the Commission a technical staff that can be at the service of municipalities or a People's Counsel must be created if this source of complaint on the part of the public is to be taken away.

Undoubtedly, the greatest cause for criticism lies in the misunderstanding of the people as to the law governing returns. The rate of return is based upon the fair value of the property used by the utility. Return is not based upon the stock or bonds or capital, but upon the value of the property at the time of the investigation and for a reasonable time in the future. Witness after witness appearing before the Committee talked about the earnings of the companies or about the stock issues of the companies. The question involved was whether the return was more than a fair return upon the fair value of the property used by the corporation. The Supreme Court of the United States has time and time again held that the plaintiff is entitled to a fair return upon the fair value of its property used and useful in the public service in which it is engaged. Therefore, without first finding this fair value of the property, all these arguments as to returns become irrelevant and mere supposition. And this is the answer to much of the testimony cited by the counsel for the House Committee in its Final Report,—the argument of return is founded on a false base.

The House Committee investigating the Public Service Commission and the utilities, developed another matter which was placed by it in its report as a complaint against the Commission and as evidence of its neglect and failure to protect the public. This was as to the control of the Commission over the issuance of securities. The Public Service Commission has no authority to prevent or restrict the issuance of securities. But under Article 3, Section 4, the Commission is given the power to give such publicity to security issues as the Commission may deem to be for the public interest and welfare. It appears from the evidence, that under the law, the utility desiring to issue securities, files with the Commission a certificate of notification. This is a perfunctory performance. The certificates are never examined, but are filed away without further action. There was no evidence that at any time in the history of the Commission (except on one occasion in 1925) that the Commission ever took any action in reference to anything that might appear to be illegal in the issuance of such securities. It was shown that certain utilities have "written up" their fixed assets and that securities were issued immediately after. A "write up" was an increase in the book figures of assets without the apparent addition of capital. In some instances witnesses testified that they were based on appraisals which showed increased values of property. None of these matters was ever called to the attention of the public nor were any of these matters ever referred to the Attorney General. Except in one or two cases, no evidence was introduced to show that any of these "write ups" were not legal and proper or that the securities issued thereon were illegal; this investigation not being carried on in the same manner as the trial of a case in court where the parties on both sides were present with counsel with the opportunity to cross-examine. Therefore, while there is nothing on the record to explain the company's side of this matter, there is likewise nothing on the record to show that such matters would have been held illegal if referred to the Attorney General for action. In fact, two cases were referred by the House Committee to the Attorney Genral and to date no action has been taken.

The matter, therefore, resolves itself into the question whether, if the Commission finds from an examination of the certificate of notification and the records of the company filed with it, that securities were apparently issued without value, that the Commission should take some action thereon. But it must be remembered that such action would be action after issuance of the securities and would be locking the stable after the horse was out.

In this matter, it is interesting to know that every Commissioner who appeared before the House Investigating Committee, when asked the question as to security issues, contended that the Commission had no control and seemed to be unaware of any other provision in the act. Counsel for the Commission also stated that while he had been with the Commission since 1913, he had never until the investigation of the utilities by the Senate Committee, conceived of the legal powers as now enunciated, as existing under the act. The special Attorney General appointed by the Governor to handle this question of utilities, was likewise Attorney General during the first administration of the present Governor and he stated on the stand that he had never so understood the law and that he had never sought to use this law during his term.

Therefore, we are asked to indict the Commission for its failure to utilize a power asserted to be given to it under the act which had apparently never been advanced by any commissioner during the eighteen years of the existence of this law, nor by its counsel, nor by any Attorney General of the State, nor by any Governor, all of whom have and had a responsibility in this connection.

Undoubtedly, the Commission should have broader powers to control the issuance of securities. Legislation is now before both Houses on this and the soundness of this requirement is concurred in by all those who have had any connection with this matter. But the need for control and the manner in which security issues are controlled by legislation are two different things.

Appointment and Dismissal of Members of the Public Service Commission

One of the questions in reference to utility regulation is the question of appointment and dismissal of the members of the Public Service Commission. The Public Service Commission is, at present, appointed by the Governor upon the confirmation of two-thirds of the members of the Senate. Under the Benn decision by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, a commissioner cannot be removed except by the approval of the Senate. The Public Service Commission is said to be a legislative arm of the government and not an executive. The present law provides that the Commission shall be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate. Any commissioner may be dismissed by the Governor filing charges, and on approval of the Senate.

The Governor contends that the Commission should be under the control and direction of the Executive, that he might be able to remove its members as he would be able to dismiss a member of the cabinet or any other appointee of the Executive.

With this we cannot agree. The Executive has been clothed, in Pennsylvania, with almost unlimited power. Under the administration and fiscal codes, the Legislature has created bureaus and departments that have taken over functions formerly performed in departments that were headed by elective officers, and in addition thereto, the Department of Property and Supplies through which has been concentrated the purchasing power of many of our State institutions, the Governor has, at his disposal, not only a tremendous amount of patronage with which he is able to dominate the Legislature and political machines in the counties, but also through the Highway Department with its vast expenditures and contracts, the Department of Property and Supplies with its millions to be expended on contracts; and the Department of Revenue with its taxing power in reference to the corporations and its control over State institutions, can and does, by threats, drive members of the Legislature into line in support of measures with which, in many instances, they have no sympathy.

Everything has been concentrated and centralized in the Executive Department. While, under the Constitution ,the Legislature is supposed to have the power over expenditures of money by appropriations, it, in reality, has no power. It assembles without any pre-knowledge as to the financial requirements nor as to the estimated income. The budget is prepared by the Budget Secretary who gets his information mainly from the department heads who are naturally anxious to secure for themselves all of the appropriation possible. In this session, the Legislature has sought to know something about the possibilities of income and control the expenditures, but it has to rely, for its source of information, upon the Executive and the department heads who are the ones desirous of securing the appropriations. In two instances during the present session, information has been directly refused by departments. Much information has only been secured after the greatest effort on the part of Committees.

Patronage is the all-powerful weapon. When the patronage is somewhat divided between the elective officers—the Auditor General, State Treasurer and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, some of the danger is relieved. But gradually everything has been taken away from these departments that it has been possible to remove, and placed within the hands of the Executive. To give the control over the Public Service Commission to the Executive for which there is no sound argument, would be only adding to the already too great powers that have been conferred upon this branch of our State government. There would be no reason why each incoming Governor should not dismiss the members of the Commission as each Governor does, in the main, with the heads of his other departments, and appoint new members. It could become the source of levy and tribute for political purposes from every utility in the State, just as the Revenue Department likewise could become the source of levy and tribute from every corporation in the State by any Governor who failed to live up to his oath or who sought to build for himself a political machine. With the use of these weapons, any Governor could build a political machine that could fasten itself upon the Commonwealth and be unshaken.

Under such conditions, unless there be strong reason for the change in the powers of appointment and removal, it does not appeal to us as a wise course to pursue.

Our constitution, following the theory of the Federal constitution, sought to set up checks and balances by creating three branches—the executive, legislative and judicial. Under the concentration of power within the hands of the Executive in Pennsylvania, unless there be a strong group who are willing to forego the political benefits of patronage and to brave executive wrath, the Legislature becomes a useless arm of the government and is but the "cat's paw" of the Executive as has been the House during the present session. Constitutional government cannot stand under such a systm.

The Bureaus will control the government or the Executive will become an autocrat. Bureaucracy is made up of jobholders whose chief aim becomes to keep the job. This generally means more jobs more ineffciency, more cost, more taxes.

Valuation

The question of valuation is one of the most complicated and troublesome questions with which our courts have had to deal. The different theories of valuation have been argued before the Supreme Court and discussed at length by many lawyers and economists throughout the past thirty years One group contends for reproduction cost new as a basis for valuation. Under this theory the utility is valued as if the plant were to be reproduced at the time of the investigation. The number of miles of pipe or wire and its weight and sizes, machinery, equipment and plants used by the utility and all of the other items that make up the physical property, are valued. It is as if you were, over night, to create the industry as it stands, estimating what it would cost to recreate it were you able to rub an Alladin's lamp and create this concern in a moment. Reproduction cost new less depreciations, has been subject to criticism because of the wide variance of values as given by the valuation engineers. According to the evidence produced before the Committee, these would vary to almost unbelievable amounts in the same property in a given case. The opponents of this hteory of valuation have maintained that this system is too unstable and too variable to permit of its use in finding fair value. In times of high prices, it creates too high values, while it may be of just as great disadvantage in times of low prices in creating values that would not permit the utilities to exist. Another group contend for "prudent investment" as the factor for measuring the return to utilities. They claim that under the theory in which the valuation is based upon the amount of capital prudently invested in the utility, using the word "prudent" as it is commonly understood, plus the qualification that it is only the exercise of such judgment as the ordinary man would use in performing the same work, that one arrives at an easily determinable basis upon which to compute value. It is interesting to know that under conditions of high prices such as have existed following the war period, the utilities have been desirous of having their valuations based upon a figure in which reproduction cost new is the dominating factor, while the public have fought for book cost or prudent investment.

The Supreme Court announced its theory of valuation for rate making purposes in the case of Smythe vs. Ames, 169 U. S. 466, in 1897. In that case, William Jennings Bryan, on behalf of the people, insisted on the cost of reproduction as the rule for ascertaining values. He argued "that the present value of the roads as measured by the cost of reproduction is the basis upon which profit should be computed . . . The ordinary business man cannot avail himself of watered stock or fictitious capitalization, nor can he protect himself from falling prices. If his property rises in value, he profits thereby; so do the owners of a railroad under similar conditions. If his property falls in value, he loses thereby; so must the owners of a railroad under similar conditions, unless it be shown that railroad property deserves more protection than other forms of property."

On the other hand, the stockholders of the railroads contended that—"A railroad company is entitled to secure such charges for transportation as will enable it at all times, not only to pay operating expenses, but also to meet the interest regularly accruing upon all its outstanding obligations, and justify a dividend upon all its stock."

It is, therefore, interesting to note that in a period of depression almost forty years ago, the counsel for the people was contending for "reproduction cost new," while the railroads were contending for "prudent investment." And now following a period of increased prices and of inflation, another group in the guise of champions of the people are arguing for "prudent investment" as against "reproduction cost new."

The great difficulty is that the theorists of both schools have failed to realize that the Supreme Court of the United States, through economic depression and economic inflation has steered a straight course, uncontrolled by the clamor of the contending parties seeking for advantage. It has adhered to the view that railroads and utilities were private enterprises engaged in service for the public. That the rights of both the owners and the public as declared by law, must be protected. That the protection which the owners are entitled to is a fair return on the fair value of their property devoted to the public use. That fair values for rate making purposes must be ascertained as of the time under investigation. That fair value is synonymous with neither original cost nor the current cost of reproduction. It is maintained that both original cost and the present cost of reproduction are competent evidence of value to be considered along with all other competent evidence. That each bit of evidence, whether original cost, reproduction cost or other competent evidence, must, in determining value, receive such consideration as under the circumstances of the case, is right and proper in arriving at a true, fair value. That any evidence in determining value must be given due consideration in the light of the circumstances of the case under investigation and that an arbitrary disregard of evidence having probative value, is error.

The Supreme Court has not prescribed any formula for ascertaining fair value nor attempted to control the exercise of a proper judgment on the part of the trying tribunal. It has, however, insisted that all competent evidence offered be received and that evidence for a probation value be not arbitrarily ignored. In this fruitful field of litigation, the Supreme Court has been singularly consistent for thirty years in adhereing to these controlling principles of valuation. Litigants have not hesitated to exchange valuation theories to conform to economic advantage. It will be therefore interesting to watch the effect of this economic depression on both the theories of the present advocates of "reproduction cost new" and those of the advocates of "prudent investment."

To establish "prudent investment" as the basis for valuation in Pennsylvania would, in itself, be held unconstitutional under the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. To avoid this, a device is set up by which corporations desiring to be chartered in Pennsylvania would have to accept the provisions of the act. It would also be necessary for existing companies seeking extensions of franchises and other privileges, to accept the act. Therefore, admitting, for the sake of argument, that this could be done without hampering and curtailing the functions of the utilities or becoming entangled in the constitutional questions involved, is it reasonable, especially in a time of depression such as we are now passing through, to cast aside the theories of valuation as laid down, not alone in the decisions of our own courts, but by an unbroken line of decisions from 1897 by the Supreme Court of the United States with its greater and more extensive problems and experiences. It does not appear to me as being an experiment upon which the people of Pennsylvania should embark.

The people are primarily interested in service. The cost is a secondary proposition. Utilities must be able to produce earnings that are attractive to the investor and give it funds with which it is possible to extend and improve its service. The physical thing which the utility delivers is but a small percentage of the cost. It is the service that it is mainly selling. Therefore, it must be in a position to meet changing economic conditions. It cannot proceed on hard and fast lines. It is this that has undoubtedly dictated the theory of valuation by the United States Supreme Court and which has held it constantly to its rule. Value, after all, is the amount which, in the opinion of the regulating body is the fair sum arrived at after taking into consideration all of the elements, whether it be the amount invested or the reproduction cost of the property.

Massachusetts was constantly held up before the Committee as the shining example of regulation and as a state which used prudent investment. Mr. Atwill emphatically stated that that was not correct. To understand regulation in Massachusetts, one must understand that Massachusetts has had regulation since 1804 and that it has controlled the issuance of securities by public service companies for a great number of years. Therefore, a rate case in Massachusetts, to all intents and purposes, becomes simply a matter of adding up the capital investment, because each issuance has been subject to approval by the Commission. As Mr. Atwill himself said, the difficulty with this system of regulation is that it, in effect, is a guarantee by the State of a stated return upon the capital invested. The State, having authorized the issue, it must allow a return thereon. This is likewise the difficulty with "prudent or net investment" in that the figure having been arrived at by computing the amount of capital invested, if that investment be made in times of high prices, there can never be an opportunity for the rate payer to secure the advantage of low prices. Nor does it seem reasonable that it will promote the desire to purchase always to the best advantage, as there will be no incentive to buy at low prices.

Therefore, we may argue either up or down on either "prudent investment" or "reproduction cost new." That which is safest, that which will enable the utilties to meet changing economic conditions, to render service and make improvements and extensions and yet protect the rate payer, is the tried and certain rule of the Supreme Court that original or book cost of plant and reproduction cost new are but elements to be considered in relation to all the evidence in a valuation case, and that fair value is the figure as determined by the exercises of the best judgment of the Commission under the circumstances.

Control of Security Issues

Undoubtedly the greatest need is to control security issues. If securities are only issued upon the authority of the Commission, within a decade it is reasonable to suppose that values will have been so fixed that while it will be necessary under the rule as laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States to take into consideration the elements of reproduction cost, original cost, etc., that the Commission will feel that the book values represent the actual cost to the utility, and that it will thereby give great weight to that factor in determining fair value. It will be a psychological control of valuation that will not allow inflation by reason of the high values under reproduction cost new nor will it hold the Commission to the hard and fast rule of net or prudent investment.

The necessity for the control of security issues is agreed upon by all those who have come in contact with these investigations being made by the present Legislature and the bills before the session contain provisions for the control of the issuance of securities.

Holding Companies

Present developments in the utility field, particularly in the gas, electric and water companies, has led the consolidations and mergers with the control of the companies resting in holding companies whose domicile are mainly without the State. The advantages to be gained by large companies, with their ability to finance and to employ better technical service and to maintain research and other departments, is too well known to need discussion here. But there is also a danger which is apparent from the testimony produced before the House Investigating Committee that has demonstrated a need of immediate legislation. A part of this will undoubtedly be secured by the regulation of security issues which will prevent unwarranted "write ups" on the part of holding companies and the issuance to themselves of controlling stock for which they have paid little or nothing.

But in addition to this, there is also the need to control the agreements and contracts between the holding companies and their subsidiaries, because it can be plainly seen that such agreements can become the subject of great abuse as they are contracting with themselves, and management fees, engineering fees and construction costs might be placed at figures that would be of an advantage to the holding company, while being at a great disadvantage to the operating company and thus be reflected in the rates which would be detrimental to the consumer. Such contracts should be subject to scrutiny by the Commission and should be justified on the part of the holding company by proving the actual cost of service rendered.

Increasing Rates

In our preliminary report, we mentioned the increase of rates before the Commission had passed upon and approved them. There is no need to expand this subject further than to say that in the legislation now before the session, this has been provided for except that there has been no provision made that the Commission must hand down its findings within a given time. Manifestly, it would be unfair to leave this so that the Commission by failing to approve might hold the rates as they were for a long period of time.

Cost in Rate Cases

Another matter discussed before the House Committee which does not seem to have been taken care of in the legislation, is the amortization of costs in rate cases. Manifestly, if the case is lost by the utility it should have to bear the cost and cannot be added to its operating expenses. If, however, it wins, the cost which the Commission allows may be amortized over a period of several years and thus charged to the consumers. But this should definitely end at a certain period and it should be the business of the Commission to check this most carefully.

Text Book Propaganda

Much time was consumed in the production of testimony both by witnesses, and in reading from the record of the Federal Trade Commission investigation, as to propaganda on the part of the utilities in the public schools. Beyond the fact that a survey had been made, and that four pamphlets had been written and distributed among the schools, no evidence was produced to sustain this contention.

While it is proper for the utilities to set forth the truth concerning their companies and to investigate statements made in text books which are untrue and misleading, if such activities should lead into an attempt to influence the children in the schools as to any theory relating to utilities or to build up sentiment for the theories under which the utilities are operated, they could not be condemned too strongly. Such activities are open to misconstruction and are dangerous because of the temptation to step beyond the bonds of propriety. It is a matter of satisfaction that the evidence showed that the Pennsylvania Electric Association which had undertaken a survey, had dropped the matter and had disbanded the Committee having it in charge.

On the other hand, if text books issued in the schools are misleading, and if statements made therein tend to give to the children an improper slant on this important public question, they should be scrutinized most carefully by those charged with the duty of placing such books in the schools. One extreme is as bad as the other.

Reparations

When a rate has been in effect during the time which a complaint has been before the Commission, the people pay the increased rate to the utility. If the Commission, or on appeal, the Superior Court, should find against the utility, under the present law each consumer might have to file an action against the utility to collect the amount which he had overpaid that utility during the intervening period. This is burdensome and manifestly unfair to the public. The law should be amended to give the Commission the right to make an order disposing of the reparations and awarding to each consumer the difference between the amount paid under the contested rate and the rate that is allowed.

In conclusion we therefore find that

1—The charges made by the Governor as set forth on page 7 have not been proven.

2—The rates charged by utilities cannot be said to be too high because we do not have the basic fact of value upon which to make the computation to determine whether the return or rate is too great.

3—To argue that return computed on book investment less depreciation is proof of "robbing the public", is unfair and misleading. It may be evidence that would lead to inquiry as to whether rates are too high.

4—The Public Service Commission entered upon such inquiry as to electric rates in 1930. Such inquiries should be made as to other utilities as rapidly as possible.

5—Larger appropriations must be granted the Commission to enable it to make investigations of rates as set forth in the foregoing paragraph, and to enlarge the engineering and accounting bureaus.

6—The complaints made by municipalities before the House Committee should be reviewed by the Commission, and remedies effected wherever possible.

7—Rates should not go into effect until approved by the Commission. But the time for approval should be limited.

8—The law should be amended to give the Commission the authority to dispose of reparations in one order.

9—Pennsylvania should continue to follow the law as to valuation as laid down and followed by the Supreme Court of the United States for over thirty years.

10—The Commission should be given control over

a. Security issues.
b. Contracts of management and holding companies with operating companies.

11—The Commission should do everything possible to simplify procedure and to reduce the cost of rate cases.

12—The law in reference to the appointment and removal of members of the Commission should not be changed.

13—The reports submitted by utilities to the Commission should be carefully scrutinized and analyzed by the Accounting

Bureau. Where "write-ups" appear, they should be investigated.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK L. BOWERS.
ELLWOOD, J. TURNER.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, I am informed that Senate Bills Nos. 1013 and 1014, which were passed this afternoon are local and special legislation. Is that correct?

The SPEAKER. The Chair believes that Senate Bills Nos. 1013 and 1014 have been passed both by the Senate and the House.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, under the question of personal privilege I desire to ask whether or not it is local and special legislation. I have been informed by Mr. Fertig and by the Attorney General that they are classed as local and special legislation.

The SPEAKER. The bills having been passed by the House and not being at this time in possession of the House, the Chair feels that it is not in a position to decide nor even to submit to the House the question of the constitutionality of the bills.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, I inquired of Mr. Fertig and the Attorney General and they believe that this is local, special legislation. I do not believe that the bills were advertised according to Article III Section VIII of the Constitution of Pennsylvania and an affidavit to that effect was not before the House at the time the bills were before the House

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Ruth, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RUTH. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. As I understand these bills only pertain to foxes?

Mr. RUTH. That is correct.

Mr. TURNER. Can you confine these foxes to any special county?

Mr. RUTH. The hunting of them is confined to special counties.

Mr. TURNER. Can you confine the foxes?

Mr. RUTH. The law would apply to only seven counties in the state.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. neither Mr. Fertig nor the Attorney General are fox hunters and I don't see how they could pass upon the Constitutional question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the time to raise the question of the constitutionality of the bills was at the time the bills were before the House for passage. That time having gone by the question cannot now be taken up. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Ruth, has the floor and may continue under his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, as a matter of record, may I inquire of the Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, Mr. Haines, whether the certifications of the advertisements were presented to him when the bills were in committee.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is unable to hear the gentleman.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. Speaker, as a matter of record I desire to ask the chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, Mr. Haines, whether certification was made to him of the publication of the advertisement at the time the bills were in his hands, and whether that certification——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, the bills having passed the House and not now being in the possession of the House they cannot be discussed at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the report.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 969 (SENATE BILL No. 259)

Mr. STAUDENMEIER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to report as Chairman of House Conferees on House Bill No. 969, Senate Bill No. 259 commonly known as the Howell Bill that the conferees were unable to agree.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal.

RESOLUTION No. 52

Mr. McALEE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 52, Printer's No. 1197.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 21, 1931.

Whereas The federal officials at Washington have admitted there are over six million people out of employment in America today and

Whereas There are beyond any reason of doubt several million more people who are only able to secure employment on part time in America today and

Whereas The federal officials at Washington claim that there are at least one hundred thousand alien seamen alone that are illegally living in America and

Whereas The federal officials at Washington claim there are besides the one hundred thousand alien seamen at least three to four hundred thousand more aliens who illegally entered United States and

Whereas The nearly one half million aliens claimed by federal officials to have entered United States illegally are either directly or indirectly adding to the burdens of both municipalities and citizens committees on unemployment throughout the State and Nation that are now endeavoring to appropriate or raise money to relieve the increasing distress of unemployment and

Whereas There is no question in the minds of thinking American citizens that there are some aliens who have entered United States illegally are adding to the burden of the cost of crime throughout the entire country

Whereas Nearly every European Country long ago in the defense of the unemployed of their country and to put a stop of alien criminals entering and adding to their burden and cost of crime passed laws calling for the registration of both native and foreign born citizens and

Whereas United States with its many miles of coast and border lines without a large army of immigration and customs employes at a prohibitive cost to the tax payers are not able to stop or arrest both good and bad aliens from entering America illegally and

Whereas The present and future distress of unemployment can be given relief by the government deporting all aliens that have or will enter United States illegally therefore be it

Resolved That it is the consensus of opinion of the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania that both Houses of Congress at Washington should when they meet in December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one enact legislation that will provide for the registration of both Americans and aliens in United States and be it further

Resolved That the Secretary of Labor at Washington be requested to prepare all data and information as to the cost that may be necessary for the information of Congress to enact the proposed national registration law when they meet in December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one and be it further

Resolved That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives be instructed to send copies of this resolution to the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress at Washington District of Columbia with the request that they have the resolution read and then refer the resolution to the proper committee for their consideration also a copy to each member of the Congress of the United States from this Commonwealth with the request that they work and vote to enact this proposed national registration law also mail copies to the Secretary of Labor Secretary of State and the President for their information

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER declared the "ayes" appear to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, and one hundred and twenty-three members or more than a majority having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative, and the resolution was adopted.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we invoke Thy blessing upon us as we are about to open the final session of this legislative body. We thank Thee for the privileges we have enjoyed during the past months of participating in the activities of this General Assembly.

Have we committed any errors, we pray Thee to overrule them to Thy praise and to the advantage of the citizens of this Commonwealth we have sought to serve.

As we go to our various localities, upon final adjournment, may Thy protecting love and care follow us. Should any of us be called from the scenes of our earthly labors before this Legislature will reconvene, we pray that we may be promoted to the General Assembly of God's Elect in the great capital city of the universe, there to rule and reign with Thee forever.

May the consolation of the ancient priestly benediction be ours to enjoy: "The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord cause His face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up His countenance upon thee and give thee peace." Amen.

MOTION TO PUT BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that this bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. PARKINSON. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move you that this bill go over in its order.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, what is the purpose of asking that this bill go over in order?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron, can take it up with me privately.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, that is no answer.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that is all the answer the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Aron, will get.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I ask the Senate not to vote in favor of this motion that the bill go over in order. It is late in the session, late in the morning. Ithink we ought to vote on this measure right now.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, that motion was a matter of courtesy,—and usually granted; and we ask the courtesy of the Senate.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Does the seconder of the motion agree to its withdrawal?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The motion has been withdrawn.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to make about one minute of remarks. I would like to state that I am very much embarassed in having to vote on this bill. I would rather be at home and asleep. In the twelve years that I have been here I have never had so much difficulty in making up my mind, and the mistake I made was in consulting too many people, I think; but I have decided to vote "aye" on this bill, and, therefore, will cause several disappointments I have no doubt.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. PARKINSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Greene, Mr. Parkinson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. PARKINSON. Mr. President, relative to the electric rates at Jamestown, New York, a short time ago the Governor of this Commonwealth caused to be prepared and circulated throughout the State a bulletin captioned "The Cost of Electric Power in the Homes of Pennsylvania." Its main theme was his Excellency's oft reiterated cry of high electric rates and the proof put forth was an alleged comparison with the charges prevailing in the city of Jamestown, New York. The pamphlet was composed, published and distributed at State expense. In an effort to give it particular appeal to the rural citizens, it was purported to emanate from the State Department of Agriculture. It attracted my interest not only because of the general subject dealt with, but because I happened to have some degree of familiarity with the Jamestown situation.

Mr. President, it may be within the province of the State Department of Agriculture to function as the Governor's medium in such matters. At least I desire to make no point of it here. I do wish to inform the Senate body that many of the assertions contained in the bulletin are untrue and misleading. I do desire to condemn the expenditure of public funds and the use of the name of the Commonwealth, to disseminate false and misleading information. The employment of the State Department of Agriculture as a snare to create a belief that the rural residents in Pennsylvania should have a Jamestown rate, inspires no commendation from anyone familiar with the facts, and who knows that Jamestown has no rural customers on its electric system at all.

It is asserted in the bulletin that Jamestown has a rate of 3½c per kilowatt hour. This is untrue. In reality its rate is 10% higher. It is stated that for $3.81 a month a consumer is entitled to use 125 kilowatt hours. This is not the fact. The monthly amount of energy which he is entitled to receive for that sum is 107 kilowatt hours, and no more. It is represented that for that monthly sum a family may operate "a refrigerator 45 kilowatt hours, flat-iron 10 kilowatt hours, vacuum cleaner 3 kilowatt hours, radio 7 kilowatt hours, washing machine, waffle iron, curling iron, electric fan, coffee percolator, and warming pad each 2 kilowatt hours, besides 35 kilowatt hours of electric light." This is likewise contrary to the facts. That monthly charge would either require the customer to curtail the use of the named appliances below the respective kilowatt hours stated, or to obtain from the use of some of them entirely.

The bulletin undertakes to name certain Pennsylvania communities and the number of kilowatt hours which may be obtained for $3.81 under the respective tariffs. But 46 kilowatt hours is stated for Wilkes-Barre, whereas the true figure is 90 kilowatt hours for York, 46 kilowatt hours is represented, whereas 70 kilowatt hours is the fact; for Steelton 46 kilowatt hours is given, whereas 76 kilowatt hours represents the true situation. The pamphlet contains a schedule in pictorial form showing in columns the different apparatus able under the $3.81 charge. The author has designed the schedule so that no use whatever is allowed for the commonly used household conveniences, such as electric fan, waffle iron, curling iron, coffee percolator and warming pad. This he accomplishes by nimbly giving a preferred use to the household electric ironer machine. If this comparatively infrequently purchased appliance were placed in the last column, instead of the column assigned to by the author, all the ordinary appliances which I have mentioned could be employed under the $3.81 charge.

The author deliberately omits from the schedule any Pennsylvania communities in which the kilowatt hour allowance for $3.81 approximates that of Jamestown, as for example—Homestead, Braddock, Aliquippa, Ambridge, Wilkensburg, McKeesport and Pittsburgh of 84 kilowatt hours; Philadelphia of 74 kilowatt hours and Waynesburg, Greensburg, Connellsville, Butler, Kittanning and Clarion of 96 kilowatt hours.

These inaccuracies and misrepresentations inherent in the pamphlet itself are alone sufficient to condemn it as a government publication and to subject to censure those responsible for its preparation and promulgation. What however is still more culpable, is the deliberate attempt to create in the public mind, a belief that the electric rates existing in Jamestown, New York constitute a fair basis or standard, by which to judge the reasonableness or unreasonableness of electric rates, in Pennsylvania. This is not the first time this endeavor has been made to mislead the people in this regard. Repeatedly in public utterance in those of men on the executive payroll, Jamestown has been represented as the gauge for determining the reasonableness of electric rates in Pennsylvania. I believe it is necessary in the public interest that this latest attempt to attract credence to this asserted standard by an official State Departmental Bulletin, should not be permitted to pass by without exposure and that the utter irrelevancy and impropriety of any such use of Jamestown rate should be fully made known.

The city of Jamestown is a built-up territory, located at the southern end of Lake Chautauqua and about ninety miles removed from Niagara Falls. It has a population numbering approximately 45,000, most of whom are of Swedish descent. It is in a sense an isolated community or at least segregated from other towns to an extent that practically all of its local governmental and economic problems are confined in operation and effect to the area within its own municipal boundaries. Largely by reason of its remoteness from other industrial towns, its people have promoted among themselves an interest in civic, government and economic affairs, and has developed a community of interests which is perhaps without parallel in this country. As illustrative only is the fact that coal for all the major industries of the city is purchased in bulk directly by the local government and disposed of among the industries, at cost. A local Board of Public Utilities manages the municipal public service activities. Its members serve without compensation. The people have attached to these offices such a badge of local distinction that rivalry therefor is keen, and men of high executive standing and ability aspire for the honor. The major portion of the time of these men and indeed in some cases all of their time, is devoted to the managerial requirements of the office. Thus at the present time the board consists of the Mayor of the City, the president of a Tool Company, the General Manager of an Art Metal Construction Company, the son of the Manager of the leading hotel, a furniture manfacturer, a director of public works, a manufacturer of automobile accessories.

It is therefore apparent that the municipally-owned electric light and power company has available to it a very high degree of managerial ability without being compelled to pay one dollar for management compensation.

The town government assumes all the work and expense of accounting incident to the municipal system. The City Treasurer keeps the records, makes up and renders the bills, and collects the charges. There is accordingly reflected in the rates no element of expense in this regard, these costs being met through the general municipal tax levies.

By reason of the density of population prevailing throughout the city, the municipal system is free from the high costs of construction and maintenance incident to service furnished in rural or sparsely settled areas.

The system is without expense for office space. Notwithstanding, space occupied by the Board offices, etc., is one-third of the entire floor area of the City Hall, no charge is made against the electric rate payer, this expense being likewise absorbed in the annual tax levies.

Telegraph, telephone, and electric light and power companies are required as the price for a municipal franchise to occupy the public highways, to agree that the city may attach thereto and maintain the municipal light and power wires, without the payment of rental or any other payment by the city whatever.

The municipal system has no tax burden of any kind whereas there is imposed on Pennsylvania companies local, State and Federal levies which in the aggregate absorb a considerable portion of the gross receipts.

The municipal rate is materially influenced by competition with hydro-power developed at Niagara Falls, for the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company, owned by Niagara Hudson Power Company, also operates throughout the city. About one-third of the people being served by the private company and two-thirds by the municipal system.

The real fact is that Jamestown stands almost unique in the entire country in the matter of electric rates. A public system, which has become sort of a municipal fetish, functioning under what is tantamount to a partial governmental subsidiary, supplies an inferior service which is tolerated by its thrifty inhabitants with rates that are materially influenced by a highly competitive situation with a company obtaining its supply from a source of water power perhaps without parallel in the entire world.

There is unanimity in the decision of the Appellate Courts that rates in one municipality are incompetent as a guide, in determining the reasonableness of rates in other municipalities, unless the circumstances and conditions in the municipalities compared are substantially similar.

Mr. President, no one is more reluctant than I to attribute to the utterances of public officials an intention to mis-state or to represent the facts of any particular situation. But we are passing through an economic condition which finds the public mind disturbed, unsettled and to a degree in a highly impressionable state. It behooves men in high official places and charged with grave responsibilities, more than ever before, to employ care in the deeds and words done and said by way of public appeal. The State Department Bulletin to which I have alluded has done no small degree of harm through the State. Its preparation and promulgation by officials and others, who had ample opportunity to ascertain the real facts, constitutes a gross breach of public trust.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the presence of the Senate, signed the same.

Mr. PRINCE. Mr. President and members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, one of my neighboring Senators said, a few minutes ago, "I feel like a boy just let out of school—awaiting the hour of twelve." I suppose we are all in a similar mood, looking forward to the hour of twelve with anticipation but also with no small degree of regret. Our session began five months ago in the blasts of winter and the turmoil of political controversy, but we close today on the threshold of June, with the warmth and geniality of spring.

I think that to be a Senator of Pennsylvania is to reach the acme of a reasonable and laudable ambition To be elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate of Pennsylvania is an even more distinguished honor. Senator Daix can congratulate himself upon the success of his political career, which to any man would be a culmination of the most laudable ambition to serve the public. He is to be congratulated upon presiding over a body of such permanent distinction and worth.

I have heard it said, and, I believe truly, that the Senate of Pennsylvania will sustain favorable comparison with the Senate of the United States. Our jurisdiction stops at the Ohio river while theirs is nation wide, a dimensional difference which reminds me of a convention of railroad presidents held a number of years ago, and attended by the executives of the great transcontinental lines and also the little jerk-water lines of the rural sections. Sitting cheek by jowl were the president of the Southern Pacific and the president of the Salt Lake River and Dead Drop Gulch, a road about ten miles long, in the southwest. The president of the Southern Pacific, not having met his neighbor formally, asked, "Of what road are you president?" The president of the little road told him. "What is the mileage of your road?" "Well," was the reply, "my road is not as long as yours but it is just as wide." We have the same title, we perform the same functions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as the similarly titled though more imposing representatives at Washington perform in the larger unity of the United States.

The Senate of Pennsylvania is a thoroughly congenial body. We admire and love Senator Daix; for one thing, because he has exhibited such capital sportsmanship. He is self-effacing; he is courteous, he is considerate; he is a thoroughly good sport. A good sport is a good loser and a good winner. We take off our hats to Senator Daix in this respect. We admire him because of the heroic struggle he has sustained against physical illness. "The iron will of one stout heart shall make a thousand quail."

Senator Daix presides over a body of men who are his peers in intellectual ability and in moral integrity. I have the profoundest respect for this body, the most ineradicable conviction of its integrity and intelligence. No matter how we may differ on measures—we may not see eye to eye, may not always stand shoulder to shoulder—there is not a man in the body who cannot take to himself the application of those lines of Pope:

"One self-approving hour the whole world outweighs
Of stupid starers, and of loud huzzas;
And more true joy Marcellus exiled feels,
Than Caesar with a Senate at his heels."

We are presenting to Senator Daix a testimonial of our regard for him. It is not visible but it is potent. It is contained in the envelope which I hold in my hand. This check for $560.00 is made out to the order of Mrs. Daix. That is a natural and fitting recognition of the supremacy of woman today. We all bow to her, and concede our proud subjection.

Woman has, in the progress of a somewhat rapid evolution extended over the last few years deprived us of some of our attire, of our jobs, our tobacco, and has even driven us out of our barber shops. Nevertheless, in the words of Timon of Athens, "You have, fair ladies, set a fair fashion to our entertainment which was not half so beautiful and kind."

Mrs. Daix will probably purchase with this check a combination of articles—sort of three-in-one—to conduce to the entertainment of her husband. An Irishman, recently landed in this country, in search of a job, answered the advertisement of a wealthy man in Boston who desired a coachman. It was in the days before the automobile drove the horse off the public highways. He was a very green Irishman, and was very literal-minded. The wealthy man looked him over, seemed satisfied, and gave him his instructions. "Pat," said he, "I want you to do things in combination. For example, if I say 'Bring the horse,' I expect you to bring the carriage and the driving gloves and all that go with them." "Yes, sor," said Pat. Well, after a while the wife of his employer became suddenly and seriously ill, and the employer said, "Pat, run for the doctor!" Pat was gone a long time, and his employer became very much worried—looked at his watch and wondered what had become of Pat. Presently, however, Pat appeared. The employer asked, "Pat, where have you been?" "They are all here, sor," said Pat. "What do you mean?" said his employer. "Well, sor," said Pat, "didn't you tell me to do things by combination?" "Yes," said his employer. "What has that got to do with it?" "Well, sor," said Pat, "tney are all here—the doctor, the parson and the undertaker."

So, they are all here—three in one: a radio, a Victrola and a Frigidaire; and we hope that Senator Daix, when he turns on this musical instrument for the enjoyment of his household at night—if he is in a reminiscing mood and unusually happy, and if the static is too bad—will put on a record, and we trust he will select that familiar and suggestive anthem, "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." But, if in a more tender mood, he may place upon the instrument the popular hymn which strikes a responsive chord in all our breasts, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," finishing off with "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot, and Ne'er Brought to Mind?"

I now turn this check over to Senator Daix, with the necessary instruction to deliver it to the lady whose name appears upon the envelope and to whom it is made payable; and we will express to him our earnest hope and desire that he may fully recover his health and join us again in this Hall of Good Fellowship strong in body, keen of mind and exalted in spirit.

THE ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Frank E. Baldwin) in the Chair.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, Senator Prince and all other members of the Senate of the General Assembly, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Fertig, Mr. Boyd and all in front,—for I have been informed that this is a contribution that has come not only from the Senators but from my friends behind the desk,—it is very hard at a time like this to adequately express one's feelings. Of course, one would not be human if he did not feel somewhat of a choking sensation. The check conveys to my mind that which brings to us all possible, a gift that comes from the heart. And this Victrola combined with the radio, and also combined with a self-making record,—it will enable me to make a record and send it to my son on a foreign shore, which to me means a great deal. The Victrola is something great, and the radio; but do not forget that Senator Prince mentioned the Frigidaire. Now, you may not always like me, you may have complaints to make here and there, you may accuse me of various things; but there is one thing of which you will not be able to accuse me, and that is, that that Frigidaire will ever be empty.

It was in the winter time, so to speak, that we came together. We have stayed here during a rather hectic session, but without, I think, one scar; and that is a great thing to say. We are leaving with the buds that are coming forth in the springtime of the year, and there must come into the breast of everyone a good feeling. Let us not depart too quickly; let us stop for one moment; and then, like ships that pass in the night, we shall be gone. They give a glimmer upon the ocean and then pass on; and let us, too, shed our light upon the ocean of life while we are here, let us manifest this thought,—and it is a human thought and can be cherished in the breast of each of us,—let us show a little more human sympathy, a little more human kindness, a little more human love for our fellow-man; and, doing that, we shall find the world a better place to live in. We in the General Assembly have every opportunity that come to men in public life to show forth our character. May we so use these opportunities that when we go back to our homes they will say to us, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Then we can feel convinced that we have played our part.

Senator Prince stated I might put on a record entitled: "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." No, Senator, I will not put on that record, I will put on another, and that will be "My Good Old Pal." That means everyone, —because I would like to take you and put my arms around you, take everyone by the hand and say, "Boys, on behalf of Mrs. Daix I thank you." And, in the words of that beloved character of Charles Dickens', Tiny Tim, I say to all, "God bless us every one."

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Augustus F. Daix, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL TO HONORABLE AUGUSTUS F. DAIX, JR.

Mr. McKIRDY. Mr. President, and members of the Senate of Pennsylvania: As long in the past as the mind of man runs civilization has endeavored to protect itself against its enemies by community effort, which involved leadership. That leadership went to the true and the brave. There was naturally some symbol to indicate authority. At first, perhaps, it may have been the bough of a tree, and later, as they attached the stone to this bough, it became a hammer, and later it became the gavel. If you will recall in mythology Thor, the God of Thunder and the friend of mankind but the enemy of the evil spirits and the brownies, carried a hammer in one hand and a scepter in the other, but the hammer was the evidence of authority. Following tradition this distinguished body, never fearful of trouble or stormy periods, selected a leader. During the troublous times that we have had, Senator Daix, you have conducted yourself with skill, patience, forbearance and ability, and the members of this Senate have asked me to indicate their appreciation of the many good things that have come from you. Therefore, it is my great pleasure to present you with this symbol of your authority. It has never been necessary to use it other than as a gesture and the members of this Senate hope that you will retain it as an evidence of their affection and esteem.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. McKirdy and members of the Senate, this is something that I think I can hand to my oldest son. I deeply appreciate this, because to the most of you, if not all who occupy positions as presiding officers in various associations there is something significant in the gavel. When one takes it in his hand he feels, somehow, a little bit different than he did just two or three minutes before that happened, he seems to realize that with this in his hand he is the presiding officer of whatever body it may happen to be. But there is no body of men in which a gavel could be used less than in this,—I know not one. It was never necessary to say one harsh word; and there is no fear that this gavel will leave behind it any little feeling that anyone was being called down, for that was never necessary.

There is no use of repeating what I said before, but I do wish to tell you that in the twilight of life, which I am in, it is only fitting that this should be handed to a member of my family. You will pardon me for not saying more.

Thank you, Mr. McKirdy; and I thank the members of the Senate from the bottom of my heart. The check and all that means a great deal, but this means more.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION CONCERNING THE PRINTING OF THE JOURNAL OF THE TWO HOUSES.

Mr. HARVEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARVEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, May 28, 1931.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives be directed to have the copy of the journals of the two Houses of this session prepared and placed in the hands of the Director of the Bureau of Publications within thirty days after the close of the session, and the Director of the Bureau of Publications is hereby directed to have said Journals printed, bound and delivered to the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives within ninety days after the receipt of the copy therefor.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE WILLIAM H. EARNEST.

Mr. RIAL. Mr. President and members of the Senate, after listening to the eloquent addresses which have been made here particularly that of my colleague, Dr. Prince, I feel myself hopelessly inadequate in expressing what is in my heart in this situation. I came here as a novice this year, as I have stated before, and, although I knew something about the Pennsylvania State Senate, it has been a marvellous revelation to me as to the manner in which the Senators act in relation to each other. It seems to me that there is one thing that is preeminent in this body, and that is the air of kindliness, the consideration which is given to the views and ideas of others.

If we are going to preserve domestic institutions in America we cannot all think alike; for if we all were to think alike, then we might as well kiss out Constitution and our fundamental laws good-bye. I do not challenge the integrity of the motives of any of my brethren here in any of the actions which they may have taken on any of the measures that came before this body, and I do not concede to any member of this body the right to challenge the integrity of my motives or the interest behind my purpose in doing what I think is right.

I took the oath of office,—we all took the oath of office to do, in short, what we think is right; and my experience with this body has been that the members of this Senate, however we may disagree about matters of policy, have made an honest effort to do as nearly right as, under the light of reason and in their judgment, men can do.

We have heard a lot of criticism of our conduct. We have heard about the fierce light that beats upon the throne, when we speak of monarchs and kings; but I submit to you, Mr President and members of this body, that the fierce light of public inspection has never been turned upon any body in the United States as it has been turned upon the Senate of Pennsylvania. We stand here today criticised, perchance, for what we have done; and so far as I, personally, am concerned I do not care what that criticism may be, for I am conscious within myself of my own motives, of my own purposes.

We do not understand each other, sometimes, but we ought to concede to each other at least that we are all brother men and that we are trying to do what is right. Stanley Jones, in one of his books, tells a beautiful story, and I may be pardoned, I think, if I tell that story.

Stanley Jones was a Welshman, and he distinguished himself in his profession and has contributed tremendously to the civilizing, I may say, of India. Stanley Jones tells about a man out upon the moor of the Wales country one morning, and he saw approaching him in the distance, in the mist, what appeared to be a monster; and he drew back from the road in fear and consternation, afraid of what this terrible thing might be. But as that object approached him it took upon itself the outlines of a man, and when the object drew up close to him it turned out to be his own brother.

So I think that sometimes when we get into these clashes, when we get into arguments, if we could see behind the mask which every one of us necessarily wears at times, we could understand that somehow or other all of us are trying to do about what is right.

In this Senate, according to the method of dispatching public business, one of the most important offices which may be given to any member of this body is that of Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General. Through that committee passes probably more important legislation than passes through any other committee, or all the other committees put together; and the chairman of that committee is peculiarly subject to criticism, sometimes to contemptuous ridicule, because of something over which he has absolutely no control, Ill-advised public expression, it seems to me, has sometimes cast upon the chairman of the committee aspersions which are unjustly coming to him.

When I came here I had the honor to sit with the distinguished Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General in connection with the Public Service Commission investigation, and I have not missed one meeting of this Committee on Judiciary General since I have been here, and I have learned to know and to appreciate the chairman of this committee.

Someone has said that a statesman is a dead politician. So far as the Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General is concerned I think he is a statesman, and he is not, by any means, dead. He has preserved an equanimity of temper, a fairness and a justness in the deliberations of that committee which seem to me should warrant, and does warrant, the expression of appreciation which we are about to give to him.

No member of that committee, and no one who is acquainted with Senator Earnest, dare challenge the integrity of his motives; and my close observation of him as the presiding officer of that committee leads me to say that I did not know him,—and when he comes out of the mist, when he comes face to face with me, I can give him the tribute that is due to an honest man, for I think he is an honest man, and I think that he has distinguished himself in that position.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of the Committee on Judiciary General, on behalf of the members of the Senate his friends and his colleagues and you, Mr. President, and the officers of this body, we take great pleasure today, as an expression of our behalf in his honesty and his rectitude, in presenting to him this silver set.

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, members of the Committee on Judiciary General, members and officers of the Senate, I sometimes dream about things that are going on, have been going on or might be going on in the Senate. I do not know, this morning, after the hard week we have put in and the lack of sleep, whether or not I am still dreaming; but, Mr. President, I want to accept the judgment of Senator Rial as to my conduct, and if I ever run for office I surely want to ask him to come down and talk to my constituents in my favor.

A little while ago someone told me that that beautiful gift was for me; and I was told that it was a tea set. The members of the Senate and the officers of the Senate are all invited to come to my home to drink tea. I do not know how they will like it, but I hope that each and every one may be able to drink some tea.

I think that that is some slight compensation to my wife for the lack of society that she has had on the part of her husband during the entire winter,—for some of the hardships she has had to undergo; and I am sure that she will appreciate it equally with me.

Senator Rial referred to the large number of bills that the Committee on Judiciary General had to act upon or consider. I asked Mr. Simons, the clerk to the committee, a few minutes ago, to tell me how many bills had been referred to the Committee on Judiciary General, and he said 361. Three hundred and sixty-one bills are a great many bills to be considered by a single committee. He told me that 196 of those bills had been reported out.

I wish to thank the members of the Committee on Judiciary General not only for the gift but for the kindly service, the kindly consideration that they have always given me. We have had a very happy time in that committee in the consideration of these measures, and there has not been a single man on that committee who has ever refused to serve on a subcommittee, to study a particular bill, to render any service that he has been called upon to render; and I want to thank them, each and every one, for that particular service.

It has been a great pleasure to have been the chairman of this committee and to serve with such a fine, solid body of men. It has been a fine thing in my life to have been able to sit in the Senate of Pennsylvania with the men who have composed this body. I think it is doing a wonderful service to the people of this Commonwealth. I am proud to be a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and I believe that every other man who is a member is proud to be a member of this body. We may, at times, have made some mistakes, but, generally speaking, the Senate of Pennsylvania has tried to do an efficient piece of work for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the people of this great State, and the service that has been attempted to be rendered has been with an eye single to one thing, and that is, what would be for the best interests of the citizens. Whether or not we have made mistakes I believe we have tried to do the things rightly.

I am not going to say anything more except this one thing,—very briefly: It is going to be a matter of great sadness to me when I cannot come here and say, "J. G. will meet at 9:00 a. m. in Room 300, Eastern Standard Time."

I thank you, one and all, for the kindly spirit you have always shown me, and for the expression you have given me in this gift.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE HARRY B. SCOTT

Mr. FAY. Mr. President, it has been charged that the Committee on Appropriations never held any meetings. They did hold a meeting this morning, and I was delegated to speak for the committee. I was instructed to express, on the floor of this Senate, the views of the committee as to its chairman.

Now, if I should tell you that I love Harry Scott, somebody would call attention, perhaps, to the fact that love is blind. Even so, I still stand before you and say that it would be pretty difficult for Harry Scott to do anything that I did not like,—and I think I am expressing the feelings of the Committee on Appropriations when I say that.

Now I have told you all I know about Harry Scott. I have been further directed by the Committee on Appropriations to present to our chairman a cabinet containing some silverware. But if Harry Scott thinks that our opinion, our appreciation of him can be contained in a box half a meter long, I want to apologize to him. This is just a small token of our appreciation.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, Senator Fay and fellow Senators, words are inadequate to express my appreciation of this fine tribute of confidence in me as the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate. We have had a very difficult job to perform in this direction because of the lack of finances and the serious situation the hospitals throughout the State that we have been confronted with, and I sincerely trust that the same confidence you have reposed in me will continue, and that I can continue to have the same warm feeling for the Senators of Pennsylvanaia that I hold today.

Again I want to assure you of my appreciation of this beautiful tribute. It will ever be, to me, a reminder of the fine spirit of co-operation that has been manifested, so far as I am concerned, in the Committee on Appropriations. Again I thank you.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the election of a President Pro Tempore, and ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HOMSHER offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

In the Senate, May 28, 1931.

Resolved, That the Senate do now proceed to the election of a President Pro Tempore, and that the Clerks act as Tellers

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I am directed by the Republican Caucus to nominate Hon. James S. Boyd, of Montgomery County, as President Pro Tempore for the interim.

Mr. FREEMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I take the utmost pleasure in seconding the nomination which has just been made. The Republican Caucus has chosen wisely and well.

Big in body, big of heart, and big of mind, it is my firm conviction that the Senator from Montgomery will prove to be an ideal presiding officer.

And if, perchance, he is elected—as I believe he presently will be—then may the Ship of State on which he will embark sail upon smoother waters, and upon calmer, less tempestuous seas than those on which his predecessor has unhappily been compelled to journey during a part of his incumbency.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I am directed by the Democratic Caucus to nominate for President Pro Tempore the Senator from Cambria, Hon. Herman E. Baumer.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. President, history tells us that a small body of men held the pass at Thermopylae. Today two lone members represent the great minority party of Pennsylvania in the Senate. Still, we are unterrified that we are unable to wage even a contest, for we love the candidate put up by the Republican Caucus, Sunny Jim Boyd. It is with great regret that we are not able to match him, even in weight, with out candidate. We trust the Ship of State will not be sunk by his somewhat heavy body; but we know we will get along splendidly just the same.

Now, our candidate we have selected with great care We have taken Herman E. Baumer because he is the only man in our delegation who comes near matching Sunny Jim in avoirdupois; and we are figuring that in case of contest, as heretofore, we might get behind our candidate and thus protect ourselves in dire distress.

It is now my privilege and my duty to second the nomination of Herman E. Baumer as our candidate, directed by the Democratic Caucus.

Mr. FRAZIER. Mr. President, I move that the nominations be closed.

Mr. EINSTEIN. Mr. President, I second the motion

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward C. Shannon) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The roll will be called by the Chief Clerk.

The roll was taken as follows:

FOR MR. JAMES S. BOYD

Apple,	Daix,	Homsher,	Prince,
Armstrong,	Ealy,	Howell,	Quigley,
Aron,	Earnest,	Hunsicker,	Rial,
Baldwin,	Einstein,	Kitts,	Salus,
Bell,	Fay,	Krause,	Scott,
Bowers,	Frazier,	Mansfield,	Sordoni,
Brandt,	Freeman,	McClure,	Sprout,
Buckman,	Gelder,	Norton,	Trainer,
Chapman,	Harris,	Painter,	Weingartner,
Clark,	Harvey,	Parkinson,	Williamson,
Clippinger,	Heaton,	Pethick,	Woodward,
Coyne,

FOR MR. HERMAN E. BAUMER

Boyd,	Lanius	Snyder,

The PRESIDENT. The Clerks agree in their tally, and the result of their ballot is: Mr. James S. Boyd receives forty-five votes, and Mr. Herman E Baumer three. The Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Boyd, has received the vote of the majority of all the members of the Senate and is, therefore, declared elected to the office of President Pro Tempore of the Senate to serve during the interim beginning after this day's session has adjourned.

The Chair appoints the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher, and the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Snyder, a committee to escort the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Boyd, the newly-elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate, to the Bar of the Senate, where the oath of office will be administered by the Honorable William M. Hargest, President Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, we have the honor to present the Honorable James S. Boyd, of Montgomery County, the President Pro Tempore elect of the Senate, prepared to take the oath of office.

The oath of office was accordingly administered.

The PRESIDENT. Gentlemen of the Senate, I desire to present to you your newly-elected President Pro Tempore, the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Boyd.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. President and fellow members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, when I was elected to represent Montgomery County in the Senate I thought I had received the highest honor that it would be possible for me to achieve in public life; and my elevation by you to the office of President Pro Tempore is as surprising as it is gratifying. The fact that I received the unanimous vote of the Republican Caucus is a great inspiration to me to attempt to conduct this office to the best of my ability, and to perform the important duties involved with a fairness and impartiality that will warrant your confidence.

Our experience here in days is long, but in moments of friendship is short. We meet and then we part; and in wishing you God Speed when you leave here today I can think of no better phrase than those classic words "Hail and Farewell."

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE WILLIAM D. MANSFIELD

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, to me has been assigned a very pleasant task, but, as the poet has said "Brevity is the soul of wit," I will be as brief as possible. My task is to present to Senator Mansfield a slight gift to indicate to him the love, respect and admiration of a few of his friends in this body. It is always a most difficult task to pay a friend a compliment when in his presence, but I would be dumb indeed today if I did not call attention to some of the fine characteristics of this man. It has been my great pleasure to have been an inimate friend of Senator Mansfield for more than forty years. My earliest days were spent within a block of his home.

Senator Mansfield has a fine analytical mind, and I believe if he had taken up the profession of the law he would have been one of the leading barristers of this State. He has the necessary poise and fine dignity to make a real statesman, and I believe one of the most outstanding traits of his character is his splendid modesty. He has great ability, and I do not know of any man in this body who makes a closer study of the bills that are presented here. He is a student of parliamentary procedure. His personal conduct is above reproach, and I believe that every member of this body has the highest respect for him.

It has been said frequently here, of this body, that it is one of the finest in the world. I have heard many fine compliments paid to the State Senate of Pennsylvania, but recently I heard what might, perhaps, be termed a criticism. There was a little girl from Western Pennsylvania who spent an evening here, and she was quite observing; she asked about the duties of the Secretary of the Senate, of the Chief Clerk, the Presiding Officer, the Sergeant-at-Arms and the Chaplain; and when she went back to school she was asked to tell of her visit to Harrisburg. She had a very real knowledge of the duties of the several employes of the Senate, and she finished up by telling of the duties of the Chaplain; she said, "The duties of the Chaplain are: Each morning he mounts the rostrum and looks at the Senators, and then he prays for the Commonwealth."

As I look around here today and I see the number of beautiful ladies I am reminded that they have a refining influence on this body, because at every session we find on hand, usually interested in humane legislation. And as I look at them in great numbers I am reminded of the story of a maiden lady who addressed an audience composed of more than three hundred married women, and her subject was, "How to Raise Husbands. The Proper Care of Husbands." She went on with a pretty long speech, telling these women, who had had the very hard, practical experience, just how to do this very difficult job; and she ended up by saying, "Now, ladies, in conclusion I want to ask the ladies here tonight to do just a little service for me." She said, "You know, after all, the men are only boys grown up—just children." She said, "They must be mothered. I am going to ask the ladies here tonight to promise me that from tonight on they will mother their husbands. Any lady who will make that promise will please rise." And she looked around much dismayed when only one woman stood. And then the speaker, the maiden lady, said, "Will you kindly advance to the platform?" And the one lady came to the platform. Then the speaker said, "I want to thank you. I am proud of you. Out of three hundred women you are the only woman who has stood here today and promised that from tonight on you will mother your hu[illegible]nd." The lady turned to the speaker and said, "Mother my husband? I thought you said 'Smother him!'"

Now, I am fully aware that at the close of this session's business we may have to go back to the humdrum life; but my intervening two years will be extremely busy, for I have had the great honor to be asked to conduct the campaign of Thaddeus C. Krause for Governor.

But, to be serious for a moment again, I want to convey to Senator Mansfield the fine regard and love and respect of his friends, and to say to him that they join with me in wishing him success in all of his undertakings, that he may have prosperity and happiness through all the days of his life.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I am placed at a disadvantage at this moment because though the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, has just informed you that my friends have made this gift to me, he has not mentioned just who those friends are. Yesterday afternoon Senator Harris inveigled me down to one of the leather-goods stores in this city, and I was a little suspicious about it when he wanted me to help him select a gift for a nephew. And when it was purchased and he told the salesman that the initials "J. H. H." were to be placed on the gift, my suspicions were cast aside. But I see now that instead of the initials "J. H. H." being placed on this traveling trunk the initials "W. D. M." are there.

I appreciate the gift more than words will convey. I want to thank those that are responsible for it, and I want them to know that I will always be appreciative of this gift and the spirit in which it is given.

I have enjoyed this session very much, and I feel that instead of my receiving a gift I should give one, especially to the members of the Committee on Education, who were so kind and considerate as to leave their beds early in the morning in order that they could be in Room 333 by eight o'clock. And for that committee I want to say that on every bill that was considered there was never one iota of politics. Every bill that was considered was either rejected by the committee or passed out of it by a unanimous vote—with but one exception, and that was the provision in the Omnibus School Bill that gave the teachers tenure. There was a difference of opinion on this, and that provision was stricken from the bill.

While I am on my feet I just want to say that I too, like the other members, very greatly appreciate being a member of this august body. I think that everyone who is familiar with the politics of Pennsylvania will agree that the fight for the election of a President Pro Tempore, which preceded this session, was one of the most strenuous fights that was ever staged in Pennsylvania; but it could not be said of that fight that it was one of the most bitter fights, because so far as I have been able to observe there was no bitterness in that fight. And while I was disappointed in not being elevated to the office of President Pro Tempore of this Senate, I do not believe that an enemy or a friend would every say that I was depressed. And the finest thing of all, to me, is the fact that after that fight was over every member of this Senate seemed more sympathetic to me than he had ever been before; and I want to thank every member of the Senate for the kindly spirit and consideration that have been given to me throughout this session and every other session that it has been my privilege to serve with you. Every bill that was presented by me was given absolutely fair, honest consideration.

The President Pro Tempore of the Senate who has just left the office, Gus Daix, has always been one of my closest friends in this body; and as this session closes, and I leave it, while I have been aligned with what you might term the minority of this Senate, I do not believe that I have left a scar. What I mean by that is, I do not believe that I have an enemy among the forty-nine other Senators that represent Pennsylvania; and I am sure that I have the most kindly feeling for every one of them.

I want to particularly thank, while I am on my feet, the presiding officer, General Shannon, for the courteous, kind treatment he has given me, and to Boyd Hamilton Secretary of the Senate, who has been exceedingly kind to me in every instance during this session, despite the fact that I was aligned with the Governor and he was not. And I want to thank all of the other employes up there at the desk for the kindly consideration they have shown me; even the pages have seemed kinder to me at this session than they have ever been before.

There is something sad about the closing of every session of the General Assembly. I think that the saddest thought that must come to our minds is this: That if history would repeat itself—and it usually does—the same fifty men who have represented the people of Pennsylvania in the Senate at this session of the General Assembly will not represent them during the next session; some will have been taken away by death, some will have been taken away by other causes; and that to me, is the saddest thing that can come to our minds—that we shall not all be assembled together again. That is sad, indeed.

I want again to thank you all for the kind consideration that you have shown me while I have been a member of this Senate.
